THE GREAT WAR.

HAPPY STAR SHINES ON ROJESTVENSKY.

Russians Look for Better Things from His Progress Thus Far.

Singapore States That His Most Important Vessels Have Not Passed There and Their Whereabouts are Unknown—Report of Fighting in Manchuria Reaches the Authorities at Tokio.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10, 12:40 a.m.—[By Atlantic Cable.] There is reason to believe that Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's entrance into the China Sea has been followed by orders for the cruisers Grombodoi, Rossia and Bogatyr, which have been ready for some time at Vladivostok, to put to sea. Whether it is the intention to send them south immediately, or to hold them in the vicinity of Vladivostok, is not known. Their appearance outside the roadstead of Vladivostok would constitute a potential threat against Admiral Togo's rear which will compel the retention in or dispatch of a number of fighting ships to Japanese waters. Thus Admiral Togo seems to be virtually placed between two fires.

The peace influence in the government urge that this favorable strategic position presents the psychological moment for offering officially the olive branch to Japan, reasoning that no matter how confident the Japanese government may be of Togo's victory, it cannot overlook the possibility of defeat, nor fail to appreciate the complete disaster which would follow the transfer of the mastery of the sea to Russia.

With so much depending upon the issue, they argue, both countries have mutual interests in avoiding an actual test, and it is not impossible, therefore, that a new move in the direction of peace may come, just as the world expects to hear the call to quarters for the greatest naval battle of modern times.

SINGAPORE, April 9.—[By Asiatic Cable.] Fifty-one ships of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's Second Pacific Squadron passed here yesterday. The most important fighting vessels of the squadron, including the battleships Kniaz Souvaroff, Alexander II, Borodino and Orel, with their complement of cruisers, torpedo-boat destroyers, etc., did not arrive and their whereabouts are totally unknown. The vessels which passed Singapore were the following:

Battleships: Sissoi Veliky and Oleg.

Cruisers: Admiral Nakhimoff, Dmitri Donski, Aurora, Izumrud, Jemtcug, Russ, Anadyr, Furst Bismarck, Kaiserin Maria Theresa, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, Kaiser Friedrich, Rion, Almaz and seven torpedo-boat destroyers, all sailing under the naval flag.

Under the commercial flag were the volunteer steamers Voronez, Kief, Yaroslav, Tamboff, Vladimir and Orel, the Russian Navigation Company's steamers Meteor, Jupiter and Mercury, and the fast Asiatic Company's steamers Korea and Kaital.

merly Rojestvensky's chief tactician, and Capt. Zilotti, aide to Admiral Avellan, head of the Russian Admiralty Department, has failed to take place, Capt. Cladio having satisfied himself by investigation that he had wrongly accused Capt. Zilotti of responsibility for the publication of a letter from Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky severely reflecting upon him.

Capt. Cladio has offered the amplest apology, completing the retraction by publishing his letter of apology in all the papers printing the first strictures.

AMBASSADOR MEYER'S CALL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10, 12:40 a.m.—G. V. L. Meyer, the new American Ambassador to St. ePtersburg, made his first call yesterday on Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, who extended an unusually cordial greeting. The exchanges, however, were devoid of significance, and neither war nor peace was mentioned. Emperor Nicholas probably will receive Mr. Meyer Wednesday, when the latter will present his letters of credence.

TOKIO, April 9, 5 p.m.—[By Asiatic Cable.] The following report has been received from the Manchurian army headquarters:

"April 5, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, one battalion of the enemy's infantry and six companies of cavalry came and attacked Tsulushu, twenty miles north of Changtu. They were repulsed. On the following day, twenty-four companies of the enemy's cavalry, with several guns, renewed the attack. They were again repulsed. The main force of the assailants retreated toward Pamiencheng. A portion stopped near Choroyo, three miles north of Tsulushu.

"Our casualties were ten. No officers were included. The enemy's loss, judging from the corpses left behind and from the number of carts carrying wounded and killed, were over sixty."

NEWS FROM ROJESTVENSKY.
IS REGARDED AS AUSPICIOUS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 9.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Russian Admiralty, Sunday, received a long dispatch from Singapore, but no intimation as to its contents has been given the newspapers. The papers Sunday morning printed Singapore dispatches without comment, the Sviet being the only exception. This paper views the news from Rojestvensky as an auspicious prelude to a decisive battle "which may show that over Rojestvensky still shines the happy star which helped him, when a lieutenant, to save the fragile Vesta in an unequal conflict with a Turkish battleship." The Sviet expressed the hope that Rojestvensky is destined to turn the tables, and that even in case of defeat, some of his vessels will be able to break through and reach the Japanese Sea.

One Bomb Meant for Dowager Empress, According to a Document Found by the Police—Resident of Warsaw Says Preparations are Making for a Demonstration.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10, 12:40 a.m.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Dispatches from the Caucasus paint the railway situation there in alarming colors. The authorities, it is reported, are afraid to run trains at night lest they be wrecked. Striking section hands seize trains and travel up and down the line, forcing other employés to cease work.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sunday, April 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the women recently arrested, with a number of other persons on suspicion of being concerned in the revolutionary conspiracy, inhabited a villa at Tsarskoe Selo, and there lived a luxurious life, keeping several carriages and horses.

A quantity of explosives was found in her house. Among them was a bomb which, according to documents discovered by the police, was to be thrown at the Dowager Empress when she went to the hospital, which she constantly visits. This bomb was to be thrown from a carriage.

A resident of Warsaw, who is visiting here, says serious preparations are being made in that city for a grand demonstration of a revolutionary nature on May Day.

KERSAKOFF'S OPERA.
STUDENTS HONOR COMPOSER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 9.—[By Atlantic Cable.] A performance of Kersakoff's opera, "Kaschey," was given by conservatory students at the Komisayevski Theater this afternoon, before a crowded audience which called the composer before the curtain, and greeted him with a wild ovation. Flowers fell in showers from all parts of the house, and many wreaths were presented to the composer. Speeches were delivered expressing sympathy with M. Kersakoff, who was removed from his professorship in the conservatory because of his attitude toward the striking students. The police tried to stop the demonstration by lowering the fireproof curtain, and then cleared the building.

There was another great workmen's demonstration today at the Smolenak cemetery, where revolutionary pamphlets were distributed broadcast. Cossacks dispersed the crowd. Serious disturbances by students are reported from Tambort.

SPECULATION AT TOKIO.
NO IMMEDIATE BATTLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOKIO, April 10.—[By Asiatic Cable.] Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's second Pacific squadron has not been reported here since it passed Singapore. Its whereabouts and the plans of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky are subjects of the keenest general speculation.

It is quite generally assumed that Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky does not desire an immediate battle, and that he will attempt to reach Vladivostok, where there are docks and shops, or seize a base. The latter course is deemed unsatisfactory, on acount of poor facilities and the danger of political complications. Many believe that the Russian naval commander has a second rendezvous in the Pacific Ocean, and that he will speedily quit the China Sea and go eastward of the Philippines.

If Vladivostok is his objective, the Pacific is considered to be more favorable for the accomplishment of his purpose, although it largely depends on Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky himself.

The Japanese newspapers and public express relief and pleasure over the approach of the Russian second Pacific squadron, as well as confidence in the ability of Admiral Togo's fleet to vanquish it.

About Twelve Hundred Foreign Residents of Schoenville Take a Hand.

Officers are Allowed to Go from Town After Three Men are Hurt.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PITTSBURGH, April 9.—Three men were shot, one probably fatally, and one woman injured in a riot at Schoenville, near McKees Rocks, today. The rioting was the result of a clash between fifteen detectives and about 1200 foreign residents of Schoenville. The injured are:

HARRY LUKASCHEWSKI, aged 24; shot and may die.

EDWARD RIDER, assistant chief of police of McKees Rock; hit on head with brick, and seriously injured.

Name of third man not known.

MRS. AGNES SADNA, a Polish woman, over whose arrest the riot started; was bruised in the scuffle, but escaped.

The riot was a climax of a series of smaller riots at Schoenville recently. During the arrest of some coal pickers, last Friday, by railroad detectives, Mrs. Sadna interfered and caused a small riot. The detectives were driven out of town. Today, the detectives went in force to arrest Mrs. Sadna. With her 4-year-old child in her arms, she attempted to fight the posse, and called to her countrymen for assistance. The officers, after taking the woman into custody, were surrounded by a crowd of men, who used as weapons, bricks, beer bottles, clubs and stones, and rescued her.

The posse finally was allowed to get out of town.

ROCKEFELLER'S GIFT.

Rev. Dr. Hillis of Brooklyn Comments on the "American Beauty Rose" Simile.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 9.—In the course of his sermon in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, today, Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis referred to the gift of $100,000 made by John D. Rockefeller to the American Board of Foreign Missions to Rockefeller's son. He said in part:

"The saddest words that have been written in this generation were spoken before Brown University by a young man who is to inherit one of the greatest fortunes in this country. They were spoken in defense of the trusts. Listen to them: 'The American Beauty rose can be produced in all its splendor only by sacrificing the early buds that grow up around it.' The rose had 1000 buds, and in order to produce the American Beauty, the gardener goes around it with a knife and snips 999, in order that all the strength and beauty may be forced into one bloom. In this economic argument, this young man brutally tells the working class that 999 small business men are to be snuffed out of existence in order that his American Beauty, the trust, may be produced.

"Listen to Christ: 'Let the strong bear the burdens of the weak.' And again, 'Give, and it shall be given unto you.' These words in defense of the trusts are the most heartbreaking things in literature to those who know what is going to come in the future. Can you wonder that, after that, when a man gives gifts we have no gratitude to return?"

MARY GALLAWAY'S DEATH.

Daughter of President of New York Bank Kills Herself With a Pistol While Despondent.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 9.—Miss Mary Gallaway, daughter of Robert M. Gallaway, president of the Merchants' National Bank and a director in many railway companies, killed herself in her room at the Hotel Seville here today.

Miss Gallaway, who had suffered from dyspepsia for several years, was attended by two trained nurses. One of these was engaged in hanging some clothes in a wardrobe, when she heard the sound of a shot, and turning to the bed, saw Miss Gallaway, who had been sitting propped up with pillows, fall over. She had shot herself through the mouth, death being instantaneous.

Miss Gallaway was 31 years of age. Despondency, due to long-continued illness, is believed to have been the cause of the suicide.

PRESIDENT IS IN CAMP.

Views Vast Panorama and Feels at Home.

Chief Parker and Other Indians Near By.

Hunt Will Begin This Morning—The Party.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

FREDERICK (O. T.) April 9.—The President and party left Frederick shortly before 7 o'clock yesterday evening, and arrived at the camp, eighteen miles southeast of town, a little after dark. The camp is nestled in timber fringing the bank of Deep Red Creek in a picturesque spot, and when the President arose, at 6 o'clock this morning, and first beheld the vast panorama of virgin soil, without a sign of civilization except the camp, he said he felt at home.

Maj. J. E. Muchet of Sherman, with C. H. McHugh, and J. R. Abernathy of this place located the camp last Monday, riding out to the big pasture which begins four miles east of here. A number of wolves and loboes were seen in the big reservation as they passed through.

The camp consists of about twenty tents belonging to the Presidential party, and is called Camp Roosevelt. One large tent is occupied as a mess hall, a number of tents being used for sleeping apartments, four cots being placed in each tent. About a stone's throw from these tents is Camp Quanah Parker, occupied by this noted chief of the Comanches, three of his squaws and some other Indians. These Indians traveled over forty miles yesterday to get to see the President. A detail of twenty troops was sent from Fort Sill to keep trespassers from this part of the reservation. Their camp is about 100 yards from that of Camp Roosevelt.

The people here, however, appreciate the fact that the President is here for an outing, and are remaining from the pasture. The President surprised the cowboys and cattlemen by his knowledge of horses. Upon leaving his private car, yesterday, he was driven to the grand stand behind the team of Ed Carter of this place. The speaking over, he was assigned to Burke Barnett's team, and no time was lost in getting to the camp. Burke Barnett, owner of a large ranch across the river in Texas, drove him over.

Capt. Bill McDonald of the Rangers, and Col. Lyon rode with Ed Carter, Gen. Young with Tom Waggoner, the cattle baron, and Dr. Lambert with C. B. McHugh. While Dr. Lambert was exercising his horse, this morning, he was thrown but not injured. The doctor spent about an hour taking a number of views of the party with their dogs and horses. These will be used to illustrate an article which the President will write concerning the hunt. There are about thirty-five saddle horses and fifty dogs at the camp.

The President has been assigned three horses belonging to Tom Waggoner, and a like number belonging to Barnett, and expects to be up early tomorrow morning, when the hunt will begin. A number of officials of the Frisco who arrived in the President's train are still here, and will remain until Thursday morning, when the tents at Camp Roosevelt will be struck and the President will start for Colorado.

In the hunting party beside the President, are Gen. S. M. B. Young, U.S.A.; Col. Cecil Lyon of Sherman, Capt. Burke Barnett, Sloan Simpson, Lieut. G. R. Fortescue, Dr. Alexander Lambert of New York, J. P. Abernthy of Frederick and two Ranger captains; United States Marshal Bill Fossett of Guthrie and L. D. Miller, one of the owners of the great "101" ranch.

TO VISIT FORT SILL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LAWTON, April 9.—It is said that the President intends to visit Fort Sill, and that the soldiers of the Eighth Cavalry, under command of Maj. Murchert of the Texas National Guard, who are now guarding the President's camp in the big pasture, will, Wednesday, escort him to that post.

The officers of the Eighth Cavalry are now making preparations, and will give him an elaborate banquet. The invitation of the Lawton Commercial Club to the President, asking him to visit Lawton will likely be accepted at the same time.

United States Marshal Bill Fossett of Guthrie, a personal friend of the President, will join the hunting party.

SEAT OF GOVERNMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

FORT ORTH (Tex.) April 9.—In a suite of rooms on the parlor floor in the Hotel Worth, in this city, the seat of the United States government has been temporarily established. In the absence of the President, who is hunting coyotes and jackrabbits over in the Kiowa-Comanche Reservation in Oklahoma, official business is given attention by Secretary Loeb. Most of the business will be acted upon by the Secretary, and directed to various departments in Washington, where it originated. That which requires the personal supervision of the President will have to wait until Thursday, for it is not until then that communication will be had with the hunting party.

After delivering the President into the hands of Western friends, who have undertaken to furnish him with wholesale recreation for a few days, the officials boarded the special train and returned to this city. It reached here at 4 a.m., and at 10 o'clock a.m. the party went to the hotel and opened headquarters. It had been expected there would be an accumulation of mail, but for some reason the local postoffice forwarded it to Frederick, Okla. It was necessary to telegraph for the return of the mail, and most of it will not arrive until tomorrow. In the meantime the official party is enjoying a rest.

Secretary Loeb expects to receive word from the President to run the special train to Frederick Thursday, and on that day start for Western Colorado, to which point the President will go for the purpose of finding larger game than abounds on the Red River in Oklahoma.

According to present plans, the public part of the trip west is ended. It is not expected any stops will be made until the train reaches Colorado Springs, and then a stop of two hours will be necessary, but not for the purpose of speech-making.

WILL LET OUT SECRETS.

Citizens' Union to Issue Address to New Yorkers Embodying Results of Investigations.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When the Citizens' Union Convention is held in Cooper Union, next Thursday night, as the first convention of the Mayoralty campaign, an address to voters will be offered which will embody the results of the secret investigations which the representatives of the union have been making for several months. These investigations have gone into the affairs of the various city departments, and persons connected with the Citizens' Union declare that some sensational issues will be raised.

Although President R. Fulton Cutting of the organization took a prominent part in drawing up this address to voters, he declined to talk yesterday concerning the contents of the document. That the entire Tammany administration is attacked, however, has been learned. Many specifications will be made in the address, which also will declare flat-footedly for municipal ownership on a radical scale heretofore not undertaken by the organization.

That this stand on the part of the organization indicates that the Citizens' Union and William R. Hearst's Municipal Ownership League will be together on candidates and platform in the coming campaign is the belief expressed by several leading Citizens' Union men. It was a notable fact that at the Hearst meeting in Cooper Union Friday evening, when Mayor-elect Dunne of Chicago spoke, many prominent Citizens' Union men were in the hall and on the platform.

MURDER OF MAYOR.

WINNIPEG (Man.) April 9.—At Beaudette, the American town across the Rainy River, opposite the Manitoba boundary, Matt Gannon, the Mayor, was shot and killed. Gannon also was the chief official of Spooner, the new Minnesota town, a mile from Beaudette, and his actions in having certain Spooner characters arrested and fined enraged the rougher element. Yesterday, a mob from Spooner, headed by saloonkeepers, went to Beaudette and gave Gannon notice to leave the town. Gannon defied them. At 9 o'clock, Gannon was shot; someone firing through a window. Further trouble is likely.

KAISER WILHELM'S SUNDAY.

MESSINA, April 9.—Emperor William spent the whole of the day with his family. He was greatly pleased to find Prince Eitel greatly recovered. From the Italian battleship Dandolo, the Emperor sent a wireless message to the King of Italy, thanking him for his magnificent reception, adding that he was glad to send him a salute from the beautiful ship. He will leave during the night for Corfu.

BRITISH SOVEREIGN'S CRUISE.

PORT MAHON (Island of Minorca) April 9.—King Edward and Quen Alexandra, who sailed from Marseilles Saturday, on board the British royal yacht Victoria and Albert, arrived here today. When they landed, they were given a demonstrative welcome. The British sovereigns continued on their cruise this evening.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR ACCUSED.

FORT WORTH (Tex.) April 9.—Prof. T. R. Dunlap, who has been vice-president of Jarvis College at Thorp Springs Tex., has been arrested on a charge of arson. The night of March 30, the main building of the college was burned. He is 52 years of age, and has a family.

FORBIDDEN TO GAMBLE.

General Superintendent Stanley of the Public Service Corporation Makes an Order.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "You are absolutely prohibited from gambling with cards, games of chance, or horse races, at gambling places, poolrooms or race tracks, either by attending such places yourself or through another person.

[Signed] "ALBERT H. STANLEY, "General Superintendent."

The above notice was posted yesterday in every car barn of the Public Service Corporation in Jersey City, Hoboken and all of Hudson county, N. J., and blank sheets of paper were attached to the notice for the signatures of all employés of the company, to show that they have read and understood the order.

District Superintendent Newton W. Bolen said yesterday that the order had been issued in consequence of large number of complaints recently from wives of employés that their husbands lost their money gambling.

WATER PIPES OF MADRID.

They Lay Underneath the Now Ruined Reservoir.

Newspapers Assert the Disaster Was Predicted.

Ten of Those Rescued Alive Have Become Mad.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MADRID, April 9.—[By Atlantic Cable.] It appears that underneath the foundations of the reservoir which gave way with such disastrous results on Saturday, were water pipes used to supply the palace and old Madrid.

It is stated that this was the cause of the subsidence and not the surface of the ground, which, when tests were made, sank only eleven millimeters. The vault was built of cement, with iron girders, as were also the supporting columns. The first wall caused all the pillars to bend, and the end of the iron work to stretch, resulting in a general and uniform collapse. This explanation, however, cannot be considered as final.

Madrid newspapers publish assertions that the disaster had been foreseen by engineers, as well as by the workmen. It is now recalled that the bad condition of the soil on which the reservoir was constructed caused keen opposition and numerous criticisms when the scheme was being discussed in the Cortes.

Workmen who have been questioned say that they were compelled to build too rapidly, with materials so defective that a disaster was bound to happen.

Many painful scenes are reported. Ten of those who were rescued alive have gone mad. A huge crowd stood around the scene throughout the night, watching the attempts at rescue in the light of huge electric lamps. Crowds of workmen and women carrying flags forced all the theaters to close Saturday night.

King Alfonso had a telephone wire laid from the scene of the disaster to the palace, and was kept constantly informed. The King again visited the hospitals this morning. Some of the injured have died. One body was recovered from the ruins during the night, but none later. Seven hundred workmen are engaged in clearing the débris. During the day students and workmen paraded the streets, collecting money for the families of victims of the disaster. The public is contributing freely.

The Governor of Madrid has prohibited a great popular demonstration of mourning which the workmen wished to organize, but he received the delegates of the workmens' associations whom he informed that a street procession would be permitted under certain restrictions.

MORMON CHURCH CONFERENCE.

One of the Leaders Says Some Men Would Have Been Horsewhipped but for Joseph F. Smith.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALT LAKE, April 9.—The seventy-fifth annual conference of the Mormon church closed today, after the members present had unanimously voted it the best conference in the history of the church. Those who recently have attacked the church and its leaders were referred to in an address by J. Golden Kimball, one of the first seven presidents of seventies, who said: "If it were not for Joseph F. Smith, a man of God, who restrains his children—and they are obedient to their father—I want to tell you that there would be some men here horsewhipped. But his children obey him, and he is a man of God and needs no apology for him."

President Kimball denounced President Smith's critics as traitors to the church, and added: "If you want to go to hell, black your boots and go like a gentleman, not like a traitor."

Apostle Hiram Mack Smith, son of President Joseph F. Smith, also attacked the critics of the church, especially newspaper writers, and said President Roosevelt was obliged to have a guard when he traveled, because of the libelous statements and corrections about him in the newspapers. Apostle Smith said further: "In President Roosevelt, we have a friend, and he has friends among the Latter Day Saints. And we will be true to him and true to Old Glory, because we are a true people. President Roosevelt will give us a square deal. We will do all we can to sustain President Roosevelt, for we are true to him, and we will demonstrate it in the future as we have in the past."

ST. LOUIS STILL DRINKS.

No Effort Yesterday to Close Saloons but Revocation of Licenses May Follow Violations.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Little attention was paid to the Sunday-closing order of the Excise Commissioner here, few of the thirst parlors obeying the mandate to close. No attempt was made by the police to arrest the offenders, and consequently the saloons did the usual thriving Sunday trade. It is believed that the non-interference was under orders, and that instead of arresting the violators of the law, they will be reported to the Excise Commissioner, and a revocation of their licenses will follow.

The commissioner is the czar, so far as the regulation of saloons is concerned, and as the law provides for their closing on Sunday, it is believed that he will exercise his authority and revoke the licenses of the most flagrant violators. Saloon keepers, through their association, have engaged the services of eminent attorneys, and will endeavor to enjoin the commissioner from revoking licenses. As his power to do so has been sustained by the Supreme Court, it is not thought that this attempt to embarrass him will have any effect.

MEXICO'S AMERICAN SCHOOL.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 9.—A company for the purchase and establishing of an American school in Mexico has been incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000. Consul-General James Russell Parsons was not able to secure the consent of the State Department to serve as president of the association, so the association elected Paul Hudson, business manager of the Mexican Herald, as its president. The association expects to open the school simultaneously with the school opening in the United States the coming autumn.

MEXICO TO CANADA.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 9.—Considerable progress has been made toward the inauguration of a steamship line between Mexican Gulf ports and Canada, and it is probable that steamers on the new line will begin their trips next month.

DRAWING OUT GOLD FROM SEA WATER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] F. W. Mahin, United States Consul at Nottingham, Eng., writes to the State Department that a process for extracting gold from sea water is announced to have received the sanction of Sir William Ramsay, professor of chemistry in University College, London, who is a scientist of high repute and an officer of the French Legion of Honor. The new process is patented, but no further description is given than that it "bears a certain resemblance to treatment adopted in mines of the Witwaters-Rand (South Africa.)

It is said that a syndicate whose title and address are not given, has been quietly picking up favorable sites on English and Irish coasts, and has now acquired rights over some fifty miles of fore shore. The securing of extensive fore-shore rights is necessary, because sea water must be absolutely pure to obtain the best results from the new process. Says Mahin:

"Some forty years ago, active experiments began which showed that gold in minute quantities was dissolved in many rivers and streams, and later on the measurement of gold in sea water placed the amount at about a grain in each ton of the water. A grain of gold being worth about 4 cents, and the tons of water in the ocean being placed at 60,000,000,000, it staggers the mind to attempt to compute in dollars the prodigious value of the gold in the ocean."

CENTRAL PACIFIC TO BORE MOUNTAINS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) April 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As announced by President Harriman, on the occasion of the opening of the Lucin cutoff, the Central Pacific is to be carried through, instead of over the Sierra Nevada Mountains. This, according to the statement of a high official of the Union Pacific, is the reason for the proposed issue of $100,000,000 of new Union Pacific stock.

The boring of mountains will cost an immense sum, and the balance will be made use of in other contemplated improvements on the lines of the Central Pacific. The double-tracking of the main line in Nebraska and Wyoming is to be continued this year.

SANTA FE STOCKHOLDERS.

TALK WITH E. D. KENNA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOPEKA, April 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] E. D. Kenna, first vice-president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway, said today that the Santa Fé probably has 25,000 stockholders. Speaking of the holdings of these men and their relation to the directors of the company, Kenna said:

"Neither the Union Pacific Railroad Company nor the Southern Pacific Company owns a share of Atchison stock. Some of the very rich men who control the Union Pacific Railroad Company, namely, William Rockefeller, H. H. Rogers, E. H. Harriman, James Stillman and a few others, during the financial depression about a year ago, bought large amounts of stock of several of the principal railway companies in the United States, including the Santa Fé Railway. They thus became holders, in the aggregate, of about 250,000 shares of the common stock of the Atchison company.

"Not long before the last annual meeting they expressed a desire to have some representation upon the board of directors, on account of their large holdings of stock. The subject was considered by the Atchison directors, and it was decided that no representation could or would be voluntarily given to these gentlemen, if they were acting in the Union Pacific or Southern Pacific interests, and that no officer of the Union Pacific or Southern Pacific Company would be acceptable in the merger of the Atchison board of directors."

C. AND A. INTERURBAN SERVICE PROVES TO BE SUCCESSFUL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BLOOMINGTON (Ill.) April 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The interduction today of the Chicago and Alton's interurban competitive service between Bloomington and Pontiac and between Springfield and Girard was a success beyond anticipation. Trains were run at frequent intervals, stopping at any city street or rural highway upon signal, and allowing passengers to alight at any place desired. The fare is 2 cents per mile, the same as that charged by the Interurban. Patronage on the line between Bloomington and Pontiac averaged $125 for each round trip, and the line between Springfield and Girard did almost as well. The service will likely be extended. It is established in direct competition with electric interurban lines.

BURGLARS IN POSTOFFICE.

Bold Attempt at Berkeley to Open Two Safes.

Kit of Tools and a Stick of Dynamite Left.

Steamer Aurelia Takes Fire. Deputy Arrested.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERKELEY, April 9.—A bold attempt was made by three burglars early this morning to blow open two safes in the Berkeley postoffice. The larger safe, containing $2000 cash and $10,000 in stamps, was partially wrecked when the safe-crackers were frightened away.

At 3 o'clock this morning Mrs. J. S. Eastman, who owns the postoffice block, heard the burglars at work, and looking from her residence, saw them through the window. She telephoned the City Marshal, and Deputy Marshal Howard responded. When he entered the main corridor, the burglars fled through a side door and escaped among the trees on the State University grounds, across the street.

The job was evidently done by professionals, who had carefully laid their plans. Night Watchman Thompson was decoyed away by a man who acted suspiciously. Thompson followed for an hour, giving the man's complices ample time to work.

In their flight, the burglars left an elaborate kit of tools, a stick of dynamite and fuses. The knob of the safe was blown off by an improvised piece of mechanism, and after the first explosion failed to remove the door, a second charge was put in place. The burglars were scared away before they could light a second fuse, but they left a charge of dynamite in a half-wrecked safe.

A smaller safe, containing registered mail, was tampered with, and cannot now be opened. The postoffice officials are afraid to touch the larger safe, owing to the fear of a charge of dynamite.

MURDER OF VILARDO.

TORTURITI'S CONFESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—The wife of Pietro Torturiti confessed to the police that her husband killed Biaggio Vilardo at No. 734½ A Green street, and says that on the night of the murder she was in an adjoining room when the two men began quarreling over a matter of which she is ignorant. She says that she then went out, and was unaware of what happened thereafter, although circumstances lead her to believe that her husband killed Vilardo.

The police also have learned definitely that Vilardo was marked for death by the "Black Hand." This is learned from Pepito Benedetti, a friend of the murdered man, who says Vilardo warned to that effect. Mrs. Torturiti has been arrested as an accessory to the murder.

Before the fire was extinguished, the Aurelia was considerably damaged about the engine-room. The loss will amount to $15,000. The fire was caused by the blowing out of an oil pipe.

GOVERNOR-ELECT'S PLANS.

Governor-elect Dunne returned from Joliet today with a definite plan of action to carry out the municipal ownership platform, upon which he was elected, with more confidence in his ability to make good than he ever had before, and eager to get down to work. Judge Dunne rode from Joliet to Chicago on the Twentieth-century Limited train with Mr. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, and one of the principal holders of Chicago traction stock. He had a long talk with Mitchell, and as a result of that conference the governor-elect was jubilant over the fact that he might not have to fight the traction companies to sell his municipal ownership principles by condemning them in the courts. His talk with Mitchell and Judge Dunne to believe that the traction interests will meet him on some equitable basis, and that a settlement can be made.

BURGLARS IN POSTOFFICE.

Bold Attempt at Berkeley to Open Two Safes.

Kit of Tools and a Stick of Dynamite Left.

Steamer Aurelia Takes Fire. Deputy Arrested.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERKELEY, April 9.—A bold attempt was made by three burglars early this morning to blow open two safes in the Berkeley postoffice. The larger safe, containing $2000 cash and $10,000 in stamps, was partially wrecked when the safe-crackers were frightened away.

At 2 o'clock this morning Mrs. J. S. Bowman, who owns the postoffice block, heard the burglars at work, and looking from her residence, saw them through the window. She telephoned to the City Marshal, and Deputy Marshal Reward responded. When he entered the main corridor, the burglars fled through a side door and escaped among the trees on the State University grounds, across the street.

The job was evidently done by professionals, who had carefully laid their plans. Night Watchman Thompson was decoyed away by a man who acted suspiciously. Thompson followed him for an hour, giving the man's confederates ample time to work.

In their flight, the burglars left an elaborate kit of tools, a stick of dynamite and fuses. The knob of the large safe was blown off by an improved piece of mechanism, and after the first explosion failed to remove the door, a second charge was put in place. The burglars were scared away before they could light a second fuse, but they left a charge of dynamite in the half-wrecked safe.

The smaller safe, containing registered matter, was tampered with, and cannot be opened. The postoffice officials are afraid to touch the larger safe, owing to the fear of a charge of

MURDER OF VILARDO.

TORTURITI'S CONFESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—The wife of Pietro Torturiti confessed to the police that her husband killed Biaggio Vilardo at No. 1365A Green street, on the night of the murder. She was in an adjoining room when the men began quarrelling over the matter of which she is ignorant. She says that then went out, and knows of what happened thereafter, although circumstances lead her to believe that her husband killed Vilardo.

The police also have learned definitely that Vilardo was marked for death by the "Black Hand." This was done by Pepito Beneditti, a desperate character, who says he was hired to that effect. Mrs. Torturiti was arrested as an accessory after the murder.

[illegible] SHERIFF ARRESTED.

[illegible] ACCUSED OF MURDER.

[illegible] ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

[illegible] (Ariz.) April 9.—Ranger [illegible] arrived here today from Cliff[illegible] bringing in custody W. A. Hobbs, better known as Lee Hobbs, a deputy Sheriff of Graham county, a cousin of the Sheriff, and having many relatives in this section. He is charged with the murder of Capt. John Bennett Nixon of His Majesty's ship Leicester Castle, September 2, 1902, the alleged murder having taken place within ten leagues of Pitcairn Island in the South Seas.

Recognition of the accused was made by a sailor traveling as a hobo, and by him Hobbs was identified. The machinery of the laws was put in motion some time ago by Courtney Walter Bennett, British Consul-General at San Francisco, and a warrant of arrest was issued by Chief Justice Kent of Arizona. The warrant was addressed from the President of the United States to the United States Marshal of Arizona. The extradition hearing necessary will be held in due course of time, but it is probable that habeas corpus proceedings will be instituted at once.

Hobbs has been a citizen of Arizona four years, and claims that he was a deputy sheriff of Graham county on the date of the murder. He further denies any knowledge of it, claims the identification is a mistake, and that he can prove an alibi. He says that he has never been outside the Territory more than a month, and can prove it. His accusers, however, feel certain of their ground.

Williamson and his partner, Dr. Van Gessner, and Marion Biggs will be arraigned, and April 17, Congressman Binger Hermann's arraignment will occur upon indictments returned by the Federal grand jury, in connection with alleged land frauds upon the United States government in this State.

Tomorrow a motion in abatement in behalf of Henry P. Ford and others will be filed, on the grounds that John Guiston, one of the members of the recent grand jury, is not a naturalized citizen, and that, therefore, all the acts of the grand jury have been null and void.

Mining applicants claimed the property as mining ground. Judge Head decided in favor of the townsite people. The case involved many homes and several hundred thousand dollars. The miners will appeal.

Carlson's body was literally blown to pieces. He was 26 years old, and unmarried.

MADE BUNGLING JOB OF SUICIDE.

LEADVILLE MINING MAN ENDS HIS LIFE BY SHOOTING.

Bullet Was Not Immediately Fatal and for Hours Unfortunate Victim Writhed in Agony Before He Died. Left No Clew to the Motive Which Prompted the Deed.

Fred Mack, a mining man of Leadville, Colo., made a bungling job of killing himself yesterday morning, and as a result of his bad work, he suffered two long hours before death finally brought relief.

Mack rented a room in the Parker House, No. 409 East Fifth street, Saturday night. He drank considerably, and did not retire until a late hour. About 11 o'clock yesterday morning he placed the muzzle of a revolver in his mouth and fired. The bullet tore away the roof of his mouth and lodged near the brain. For an hour the man writhed in agony before a passing chambermaid heard groans and entered the room.

The wounded man was tossing to and fro on the bed moaning pitifully. He was hurried to the Receiving Hospital, where he died before the surgeons could perform an operation.

Mack was unknown at the hotel, and, as far as could be learned, he had no relatives or friends in Los Angeles. He was a member of the Leadville Lodge of Elks, and at one time he is said to have owned valuable mining property in that place. In his effects a bottle of whisky, an Elks' pin, a gold watch and chain and a number of letters from mining men were found. He had only 24 cents. The body was sent to Pierce Bros.' morgue, where an inquest will be held at 10 o'clock this morning.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

Commander-in-Chief Dustin of the Sons of Veterans Finishes His Western Tour.

Commander-in-Chief Dustin of the Order of Sons of Veterans, U.S.A., left for his home in Illinois yesterday afternoon, going by way of San Francisco and the Coast line. He was accompanied by Past Camp Commander Wolfrom of Lincoln Camp of San Francisco, who, with Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief Geis, has been staying at the Angelus Hotel. Some of the local Sons of Veterans, including Division Commander Conart and Past Division Commanders Medlar and Washburn, special aides to the Commander-in-Chief, bade the latter farewell. Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief Geis, who is major and aide-de-camp on the staff of Gen. R. M. J. Reed of the Sons of Veterans Reserves, the military branch of the order, will remain in this city some time longer, visiting friends, and may conclude to reside here indefinitely.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Sons of Veterans is greatly pleased with the conditions as they exist in California, and speaks well of the membership of the order on the Pacific Coast, as far as it has come under his observation. He hopes to see more camps established, and was gratified at the presentation to him during his visit to this division of one new camp, that at Sawtelle, whose members were obligated Saturday night. It is expected that as soon as Division Commander Conart has appointed and installed the members of his staff the work of endeavoring to muster new members will go rapidly forward. C. E. Washburn, who was Division Chaplain last term, has resigned the complimentary appointment of Division Secretary, or Adjutant, as the title formerly was, and several names are suggested for the place.

The Commander-in-Chief had nothing but good to say of the hospitality extended to him here and in San Francisco, and was especially pleased to meet so many veterans of the Civil War at the reception here, and at the Soldiers' Home on Appomattox Day, where a box at Memorial Hall was placed at his disposal by Gov. LaGrange during the exercises. A number of the comrades of Stanton Corps, No. 55, G.A.R., of this city were introduced to Commander-in-Chief Dustin there, and like officers of the Home were interested to learn that he is the son of Gen. Dustin of Illinois, now deceased, who made the march with Sherman to the sea, an episode which members of the Veteran Drum Corps of Los Angeles recognized at the reception in Odd Fellows' building, Thursday night, by playing "Marching Through Georgia."

The committee having in charge the entertainment of Commander-in-Chief Dustin in this city was composed of the following: Camp Commander Fred E. Munsey of W. S. Rosecrans Camp, No. 2, ex-officio chairman; Past Division Commander C. E. Washburn, acting chairman; Past Division Commander John A. Medlar, sub-Committee of one on Hotels; Division Commander George W. Conart, sub-Committee on Collections; Past Commander Lewis K. Blind, sub-Committee on Collections and Accounts; Junior Vice-Camp Commander Harry Fitch, sub-Committee on Reception.

FIERY FILMS START PANIC

Kokomo Youth Fatally Injured and Many Burned.

Picture Machine Takes Fire in a Theater.

Operator Scares Spectators by Crying to Them.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

KOKOMO (Ind.) April 9.—George Armstrong, 16 years old, was fatally injured and a score of persons severely burned tonight during a fire in the Sipt Theater, caused by a roll of celluloid films, used in operating a moving-picture machine, having ignited. In the panic that followed, Armstrong jumped through a window on the third floor and was fatally injured.

A moving-picture show was in progress. During the intermission a bag of celluloid films, suspended over the balcony railing, was ignited by an electric light. The machine operator brought the audience into a panic by crying, "Look out everybody; the theater is on fire." In an instant 600 people became a crushing, rushing mass of humanity. That more were not hurt is due largely to the excellent system of fire escapes and exits in the theater, and the deportment of the house employés.

Armstrong occupied a seat in the gallery, and at the warning cry broke a plate-glass window and jumped to the sidewalk, a distance of forty feet. Both his legs were broken and he was internally injured.

Mrs. Bert Jacobs was so affected by the shock as to require the attention of a physician. Her condition is serious.

Vance Hunt was badly burned by the flaming films, and several others were severely burned. The theater was damaged by smoke only.

Dunne, who will assume the office of Mayor today, stated last night that one of his first official acts would be to endeavor to bring about an amicable adjustment of the difficulty. While peace plans were being considered, the local unions of the express drivers throughout the city met and decided to refuse to handle business belonging to the firm of Montgomery, Ward & Co. The employers, however, declare they will have sufficient non-union help on hand.

LOS ANGELES SOCIETY GIRL IN DANCING ROLE IN COMIC OPERA.

James Ray of Pasadena as "Prince Charming"

Miss Mercedes de Luna of Los Angeles as "Lalita the Dancing Girl"

Miss Eugenia Miller of Fresno as Koalo

P. S. Kellogg of Pasadena as "Prof. Boggs" and E. J. Smith of Santa Cruz as "Jack Thurston"

Los Angeles and Pasadena players in Stanford University theatricals.

WHEN Miss Mercedes de Luna of Los Angeles promised the student authors of the 1906 production of the annual junior show at Stanford that she would take the part of "Lalita the Dancing Girl," they felt for the first time a comfortable assurance that the comic opera, "The Princess Enone," would be a success.

Southern California students predominate in the coming production. The author of the book, the inspiration of the entire production, Delmar Reynolds, is a Pasadena man. In the authorship he associated himself with Homer Curran of Denver, who composed the music, and Karl Bickel of Geneseo, Ill., who wrote the lyrics with Reynolds.

The student authors endeavored to build up an opera after the most approved lines, and their measure of success will be determined by the critical audience of Stanford students and alumni on April 20, when the show will be produced.

Departing from the rut into which the Stanford dramatists have fallen of late years, Reynolds laid the scene of his play far from the Stanford campus. He went deep into a "mystic vale in Yucatan" for his setting and color, and in this palm-bedecked vale, he carries his actors through the various difficulties that will occupy the attention of the audience through the two acts that make up the piece.

The plot centers around "Prof. Atherton Boggs" of the Stanford archaeology department and "Jack Thurston," a Stanford junior. They have become lost in an effort to locate a band of Aztecs, who are rumored to be living somewhere in Yucatan in all their ancient magnificence.

In the opening scene "Thurston" explains their position when he sings.

"A brace of brave explorers we
Cast into deep adversity.
Far from our loved 'varsity
We're working out our destiny
Lost in jungles full of snakes
Birds with beaks like garden rakes
Searching in this mystic land,
Looking for an Aztec band."

At which "Prof. Boggs" answers:

"A prof am I of high degree,
My Major archaeology.
You only need to glance at me
My deep intelligence to see
Learned in geology
And the mysteries of psychology,
I only wish I knew a man
Who'd get me out of Yucatan."

The sought-for Aztec band is also in trouble. Once every year they are deprived of their ruler by the god Huitzal, who at same time always leaves a sign by which the new ruler may be identified. The searchers find a junior "plug" with a Stanford "S" painted upon it. This they take for their sign and the Hawkshaws and Holmeses of the valley go out on a still hunt for a man wearing a Stanford "S."

In the meantime "Boggs" and "Thurston" are discovered and taken before the priest captain, who orders their immediate execution. They are about to be killed when the searchers return, and seeing the "S" upon Thurston's sweater, declare that he is the chosen one. He is told to prepare for his wedding with the "Princess."

When this announcement is made the "Princess Enone," attracted by the clamor arrives upon the scene. She is very beautiful, and Thurston, believing that she is his promised bride, consents to the ordeal. He soon discovers, however, that it is not "Enone" but "Zaza" whom the chosen one must marry. Zaza is forty and fat and has had several score of husbands already in her varied career.

To avoid this fate, he takes off the sweater and gives it to Boggs, who, believing that "Enone" is the prize, puts it on very eagerly.

The wedding ceremony takes place, both of the principals being veiled. The first act closes with the denouement. Boggs flees in horror with "Zaza" in close pursuit.

The second act is taken up in releasing "Boggs" and getting "Enone" off to Stanford with "Thurston."

The part of "Prof. Boggs" is taken by R. S. Kellog of Pasadena, who, with James Ray of Pasadena, in the part of "Prince Charming," are the principal comedy characters. Victor Stork of Los Angeles has the part of "Zaza," the burlesque princess, whom the chosen one must marry. Miss Beatrice Phillippi and Miss Pearl Eckstein of Los Angeles have parts in the chorus.

The music of the opera is much above the usual student standard. The composer, Homer Curran, has had exceptional opportunities for studying music of the character needed in light opera and for this reason he was peculiarly well fitted for the work. The song "When My Golden Dream Comes True," sung by Ray, Kellog and Miss Geraldine Brown of San José, who takes the part of "Enone," will be one of the hits of the evening. Another trio in which the chorus is prominent is "The Song of the Flowers." It is sung by Miss Eugenia Miller of Fresno, who takes the part of Koalo, Miss Lyman, who takes the part of the "Wild Rose," and Miss Edna Brown, who sings the "Pansy." Each of the three young ladies sing of their favorite flower, Miss Miller closing with "The Poppy."

D. M. Reynolds, the author of the book, will handle the scenic end of the opera also. He has had charge of the Stanford stage for the past three years, and under his management the staging of the Stanford plays has become more and more elaborate. The theaters of San Francisco have been ransacked for the material and the effects that are to be introduced will be distinct novelties on the Stanford stage.

SAILOR RUBS REAR-ADMIRAL.

ABLE SEAMAN FROM FLAGSHIP IN CITY JAIL.

Accused of Making an Assault on His Commanding Officer While Rowing Him Ashore—Said to be Insane as Result of a Former Fearful Explosion.

Richard Starr, able seaman of the flagship Chicago, of the Pacific squadron now at Long Beach, is alleged to have assaulted Rear-Admiral Goodrich Saturday and to have tried to throw the officer overboard.

Starr was locked in the City Jail yesterday on a charge of drunkenness. His act of insubordination will be taken up later by the naval authorities.

Starr is one of the few survivors of the magazine crew on board the battleship Missouri, when a fearful explosion killed ten men and nearly sank the big craft at Pensacola a year ago. He was taken out of the magazine more dead than alive. Since his fearful experience Starr has not been well balanced mentally, and his attack on the admiral is attributed to this fact.

It is reported that while going ashore in a yawl Saturday Admiral Goodrich's attention was attracted to Starr, who was one of the oarsmen, and who seemed to be shirking. The admiral sharply reprimanded the man and Starr flew into a passion. Jumping into the sternsheets he grappled with the officer. Boatswain Glass grabbed Starr, but as the latter is a powerful man, Glass and the admiral together were unable to hold him, and all three barely missed going overboard. The other men came to the rescue and Starr was finally subdued.

Yesterday Starr secured shore leave and he came up to Los Angeles. The "motion" of the sidewalk and bad whisky made him dizzy, and he landed in the City Jail.

Men on the Chicago say that Admiral Goodrich feels disposed to overlook Starr's attack, as he thinks the effect of the explosion is still in the man's head, and at times he is not responsible for his acts.

CARRIAGE SHOP IS DESTROYED.

HOT SAN PEDRO-STREET FIRE LICKS UP PROPERTY.

House Burned and Other Buildings in Danger—Loss Estimated at About Eight Thousand Dollars—Spectators Pull Out Wagons, Then Flee for Life.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the E. P. Weber Carriage Works, No. 712 San Pedro street at 3:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and damaged the cornice shop and residence of William Schaeffer adjoining. The loss is estimated at $8000.

The inflammable nature of the contents of the small frame building occupied by the carriage works allowed the flames to spread rapidly, and when the fire department arrived the entire building was in flames, while Schaeffer's residence, a two-story structure, and the cornice shop were burning. Quick work on the part of the firemen saved the two last mentioned structures. Spectators pulled a number of vehicles from the factory before the flames drove them out. Several fine wagons and carriages and a new ambulance belonging to Pierce Bros., were destroyed. All of the machinery in the factory was ruined.

Schaeffer's residence and shop were damaged by fire and water to the extent of about $2000. The fire burned for an hour and endangered surrounding property before it was under control.

Napoleon of the Future.

Although France has not produced a great man for ninety years, the ignorance and unrest prevailing in Russia, and the babel and intestine strife of the Austro-Hungarian empire, preclude the idea of a Slav, Czech or Magyar Napoleon. Italy, Spain and England are equally unlikely to produce a successful military tyrant, and we therefore assume that the Napoleon of the future will be a German soldier. The first task of a German Napoleon, after completing his career of conquest on land, would be the subjugation of England by the organization of sea power. The destruction of British sea power would be to a modern Caesar an imperious necessity. Napoleon placed commerce behind agriculture, which he considered to be the basis of national health and wealth. The new Charlemagne would be better informed on economic subjects than the Corsican.—[Illustrated London News.

RESTAURANT MEN GROAN.

New Order of Police Board Has Ruined Bohemian Business.

The new rules of the Police Commission relative to serving liquor to women has been in operation long enough to show its effects. The business of the Bohemian after-theater resorts has suffered.

One place has discharged six waiters since the order went into effect. Another has let out two; still another confesses to an utter stagnation of business. It is believed that some of them will go under if the rule is adhered to.

So far, the order has been strictly observed. It is possible for a woman to get a drink without a meal actually before her, but she must put in her order for something to eat before she drinks. In others words, "appetizers" are recognized by etiquette and law. A thirsty damsel can have a cocktail, but not a beer.

Too Much for the Dandy.

The demure little woman has often a caustic tongue, although she only puts it into operation under semi-compulsion. A city dandy now holds his kind of woman in abhorrence.

The dandy was the sole occupant of a Green Lake car a few nights ago. By and by a demure little woman with her bright-faced child entered and sat down on the same side. Then, as people entered the car, the little woman moved along until she was close to the dandy.

Her child was amused at the strange things she saw on the way, and kicked her little feet in delight. In her joy she rubbed her tiny shoes against the dandy's trousers. This was more than he could stand.

"Madam," he said icily, as he turned to the little girl's parents, "perhaps you imagine that this conveyance is your private carriage."

"Oh, no; I don't," she replied promptly, and loud enough for all the passengers to hear, "if it was you wouldn't be riding in it."—[Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

SIDE TALKS BY THE OFFICE BOY

Everybody loves a lover with the possible exception of her old man and the dog. I don't believe it right for a girl to say "no" when a nice fellow asks her a civil question and tell him she'll be a sister to him and a lot of other nice things. I know a young man who has a best girl over in Pasadena, and I think his is about the worst case of really truly love on record. He certainly is entitled to all the medals. Why, he's got it so bad he can't sleep nights, and it's hard for him to work daytimes. I think when he becomes "otherwise engaged" he'll be all right. Don't you know, nearly everybody who goes to Pasadena falls in love with the place and the people? We've got an awful lot of good customers over there, they're delightful people to do business with. We make suits for lots and lots of the best-dressed men in Pasadena. I think myself we make suits for all of the best-dressed men. Of course, it goes without saying that they buy their Hats, Shirts, Neckwear, Underwear, etc., here.

SAW HIS SON KILLED BY CAR.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE SANTA MONICA ELECTRIC LINE.

Ray Bishop's Body Cut to Pieces by Trailer—His Father First to Reach Him, Fails to Identify the boy Until He Found the Latter's Purse. Competition in Gas.

SANTA MONICA, April 9.—Ray Bishop was killed by an electric car on the Los Angeles-Pacific Railroad Company's track this evening about 5 o'clock. The accident happened at Pacific street. The young man, who was about 17 years old, attempted to board a southbound car to which a trailer was attached. The cars do not stop at Pacific street, but as the train was crossing that highway the young man came running toward the cars and attempted to jump on. He lost his footing and was dragged beneath the trailer and horribly mutilated. He was dead before passengers could reach him. His arm was cut off, and the top of his head was ground into pulp. Portions of his body was strewn along the track for many feet.

The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bishop of No. 1726 East Seventh street, Los Angeles. The family had been living on the beach for almost a year and the children are attending school here. Mr. Bishop came over to spend Sunday as usual and was a passenger for Los Angeles on the car that killed his son.

The Bishops live on Pacific street, near Trolleyway, and Mr. Bishop and another son had walked over to Bicknell and boarded the car. There they said good-by to Mrs. Bishop and the children and started for home. The car had scarcely got under full headway before Ray came running toward it and was killed.

One of the first passengers to rush to the assistance of the lad was Mr. Bishop, who gathered up the pieces of the body. He wondered whose boy it could be. Then he felt into the pocket of the young man and brought out the pocketbook of his own son, the one he had bade good-by scarce a minute before.

The father is an employé of the Pacific Electric Railway Company and through his grief and tears he managed to assure the conductor and motorman of the train that he did not blame them for the accident. Why the lad tried to board the moving car was more than the father knew, as the boy had no thought a moment before the accident of going anywhere, much less of going to Los Angeles.

Undertaker Guidinger took charge of the body for the Coroner and the official inquiry will be made tomorrow morning.

COMPETITION IN GAS.

When the City Trustees meet in regular session tomorrow night one of the important matters to receive attention will be the sale of the gas franchise as advertised. Should the new company purchase it there will be great activity in the installation of a new plant and laying mains, as the company's contracts all provide that gas will be served by the first of July.

OCEAN PARK.

NEW PLEASURE PIER.

OCEAN PARK, April 9.—This beach is to have a new pleasure pier. This much was decided at the meeting held last night. It was also the conclusion that there should be no delay in its construction. The pier is to be built by a beach amusement company that is to be organized among local capitalists. The structure, as proposed, will extend from Pier avenue for a distance of about 800 feet into the sea to meet a like pier that will be built from Marine street to join it. Being about two hundred feet apart and in the form of a horseshoe the double pier will have a length in all of about 1800 feet. From the circle of the horseshoe it is probable there will be a further extension into deeper water. The estimated cost of the pier is $50,000. Stock books were opened last night and those present subscribed to the amount of $26,650. Committees were appointed and will meet tomorrow morning for the purpose of securing the takers for the remainder of the stock and proceeding with the organization of the company and hurrying the building of the pier to meet the convenience of the summer visitors.

Down to the Sea

Real sea stories by "a Kipling of the sea." A more entertaining writer of tales of the sea than Morgan Robertson never trod the deck. How the seat of Finnegan's trousers was changed into guncotton; how a protesting cow played substitute for a missing crew; how a persistent shark was fed with belaying pins, marline spikes, rubber boots, and finally with an emetic—this is but a hint of humor with which the stories are brimming.

"There is a laugh on almost every page. The author is in his element as a fun-maker, and his inventions would make a graven image smile."—New York Evening Sun.

"Morgan Robertson might almost be called a Kipling of the sea. He is the creator of characters, original, individualistic, and human. Finnegan is a continuing joy, and the reader feels under special debt to the author for having evolved him."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Masquerader

The vast interest this tremendous story aroused when it was appearing serially, leading readers to besiege the publishers with requests for advance proofs, remains unabated. The Masquerader goes on its conquering way. It is only the biggest kind of a story that can run away with the public in this fashion—a story vibrant with life on every page—real, intense, human. That is what The Masquerader is. As one reviewer has put it:

"This is a story of a strong man and a strong woman and their high-handed grasping for happiness in the face of the moral law. The woman, magnificent in her love, rises above considerations of conventions, above fear, above conscience. Circumstances give her the right to follow the dictates of an overwhelming passion. It will take rank with the few really good books."—New York Evening Mail.

FLOUR FAMINE FEARED.

American Conspiracy Suspected in England—A Delegation Will Investigate.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 25.—Great Yarmouth, the fishing center on the east coast of England, is threatened with a flour famine in consequence, it is said, of the failure of America to supply the quantity of flour it has been accustomed to do in preceding years. The local flour millers are reaping a rich harvest. Their mills are working night and day in order to keep pace with the demand, but the consumers of bread are suffering because the price has been increased. There is a feeling among the bakers and confectioners of this town and several other places on the east coast that there is some sort of a conspiracy between the local millers and the American flour trust by which the usual consignments of flour are not delivered at Great Yarmouth. In order to get at the bottom of the whole matter William Jenkins of Yarmouth, and Edward Thomas Abbott of Hull, representing the Bakers' and Confectioners' Union of Great Britain will leave England on the 29th inst., and proceed to the United States with the view of investigating the cause of the stoppage of the usual supply of American flour. They mean to visit the chief flour-milling centers and will endeavor to interview the leaders of the trust. Although these delegates are representing workmen, they have the support of what is known in England as the Master Bakers' Association.

Real Estate Dealers.

The tremendous volume of classified real estate advertisements now being regularly printed in the Sunday Times makes it necessary to ask patrons to get in their "Liner" copy as early as possible. Real estate dealers, especially, would confer a favor by turning in what advertising for Sunday they can get ready on Friday nights, and the balance by Saturday noon; 11 p.m. Saturday nights is the latest hour that classified announcements will be received, either over the counter or by phone.

BOLD FRONT PUT ON BY RABBIT CHASERS.

IN defiance of the efforts of the officers of the S.P.C.A. to prevent coursing, R. F. Goings and Billy Clune of the Arcadia Coursing Club resumed the so-called sport at Baldwin's ranch yesterday afternoon.

About one hundred spectators—mainly tin-horn gamblers and Mexicans—watched four of Henry Lyon's greyhounds chase three jackrabbits, and cheered lustily because they thought they had found a way to beat the officers, who say they intend to stamp out coursing in Southern California.

Officer Zimmer of the S.P.C.A. was on the ground, but he made no attempt to interfere in the alleged sport, for he did not consider the time propitious.

Lucky Baldwin stood by and encouraged the men with the dogs. Billy Clune announced that the club proposes to course each Sunday, and that ex-Gov. Gage had been retained to defend the men if arrests were made.

"Furthermore, we have raised a purse of $2500 to fight this thing in the Supreme Court if necessary," Clune added.

While there is no State law against coursing, officers of the S.P.C.A. think they can successfully prosecute the promoters of the "enterprise" for cruelly killing and tormenting the rabbits. Goings and Clune seemed to invite arrest, and they may have their desires gratified later on.

WINNERS OF PRIZES IN "LINER" CONTEST.

THE TIMES yesterday (Sunday) contained a total of 4986 "liners," or separate classified advertisements. This was a gain of eighty-one over the previous Sunday and within fifty-seven of the highest number ever printed in a single issue of The Times—5023, on January 29 of the present year.

The contest for cash prizes awarded for best estimates as to the number of "liners" contained in the successive issues of the Sunday Times, which was in progress for some weeks, came to a close with yesterday's issue, as per notice given at the beginning of the week. Following are the final prize winners:

CARRIE SMITH, No. 1176 East Twenty-fifth street, first prize, $3.

ALICE J. PECK, No. 2914 Baldwin street, Los Angeles, second prize, $2.

FRANK G. MARTIN, Station A, Pasadena, third prize, $1.

Carries Smith's guess was 4967, just one more than the exact total. Miss Peck's estimate was 4963, three less than the correct number. Mr. Martin was four points under the mark, his guess being 4982. Next in order were the following:

Miss Edna R. Purvis, Ontario, 4961; Mrs. Elsa Menasco, No. 210 West Twenty-second street, 4972; W. D. Marks, No. 422 South Flower street, 4973; L. M. Shields, No. 928 Potter Park avenue, 4957; Alfred Smith, No. 640 Banning street, 4976; Charlie Boquist, No. 1120 El Molino street, 4978; M. A. B., No. 2915 South Figueroa street, 4964; Oswald White, Rivera, 4983; H. O. Waggoner, No. 729 Merchant street, 4983; B. M. Marks, No. 422 South Flower street, 4985; George Weeks, No. 1638 Wall street, 4985.

The lowest estimate made by any of the contestants was 2817, by Emmett Rheinhart of No. 1310 Iowa street. The highest guess was 48,884, by A. Blust, No. 718 East Eleventh street. Through some hook or crook Mr. Blust managed to get one figure too many in his guesses all through the contest. The Times hopes some time it will take five figures to express the number of "liners" contained in a single issue, but up to date four figures have been sufficient.

In space the "liners" in yesterday's Times amounted to 161 columns, twenty-three solid pages, a volume which has seldom been excelled by this or any other newspaper.

The Herald and Examiner combined yesterday contained a total of only 2121 classified advertisements, as compared with The Times' total of 4986. Even by lumping the "liners" of the two contemporaries there is scarcely enough of them to make a showing worthy of comparison. Their combined total is 2808 less than the number contained in The Times, or less than 43.5 per cent. of The Times' total.

The fact that the Herald and Examiner combined can muster less than one-half as many "liners" as The Times, alone, shows how little confidence advertisers place in the Examiner's ridiculous circulation claims. Persons who pay cash for advertising want to get the most they can for their money. Bona fide circulation is what counts in advertising, and that is why the volume of advertisements, both display and classified, or "liners," appearing in The Times regularly so greatly exceeds the volume of pap and premium-fed advertisements carried by all the other daily papers published in Los Angeles, combined.

The Times' "liner" business is not the result of any spurt or mushroom growth or fertilizing process. It is but the reflection of the healthy, steady growth of the business community of Los Angeles and Southern California. It has, by no means yet reached its maximum. It is larger this year by a handsome margin than it was last year, and next year it will be still larger, and will keep on growing just as long as the business and population of Los Angeles and the Southwest keep on expanding as they have done ever since The Times started upon its mission of printing "all the news (and most of the advertisements) all the time."

While the guessing contest has afforded amusement to a great many people, it has also served to call attention to the popularity of The Times' "liner" columns as a medium for bringing sellers and buyers together and helping people to satisfy their various wants. When the contest began most of the estimates submitted went wide of the mark, but as it progressed, most of the guessers became expert, and few of the many estimates submitted varied more than a hundred or two from the winning number. In fact, their accuracy was beginning to become monotonous, so it was thought best to close the contest for the time being and substitute some other form of amusement and profit for Times readers interested particularly in the "liners." Announcement of a new contest scheme will be made soon. Watch for it.

A WOMAN'S ORDEAL
DREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS

Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private ills, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female disease.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude in words. Before I wrote to you telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady, and spent lots of money in medicines besides, but it all failed to do me any good. I had female trouble and would daily have fainting spells, backache, bearing-down pains, and my monthly periods were very irregular and finally ceased. I wrote to you for your advice and received a letter full of instructions just what to do, and also commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have been restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

BITTER FIGHT NEARS A CLOSE.

SAN BERNARDINO TO ELECT CITY OFFICERS TODAY.

Fortune Wagered on the Result Which Both Sides Claim Will be in Their Favor—Campaign Has Been Without Parallel in the History of the City.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 9.—At sunrise tomorrow the long-anticipated municipal election opens, with the promise that it will be one of the warmest election days known in this city for many a year. The principal fight centers about the two respective candidates for the Mayoralty, J. J. Hanford, Republican candidate by grace of the Supreme Court, and H. M. Barton, non-partisan candidate. Between $3000 and $4500 in lump sums of large denominations will change hands on the result, while individual sums ranging from $5 to $50 will probably swell the total sum to almost $10,000.

Non-partisan money is more in evidence, and there's no denying that Barton followers appear to be more numerous, though within the past week a strong tide has been setting in favor of Hanford. The hard scrapping will come in the First and Second Wards. In the second Wixom (Dem.) is pitted against Garner (non-partisan) for Councilman, and Flagg (Rep.,) but politicians seem to think that between Wixom and Garner the fight will be close.

In the First Ward Cole (non-partisan) shows decided advantage over his opponents. A careful consideration of the strength of the respective candidates seems to warrant the prediction that the non-partisans will elect Barton for Mayor, Cole and Wees, Trustees in the First and Fourth Wards, respectively, and Boggs for member of Board of Education; the Democrats may pull Wixom, Councilman of Second Ward, through and C. M. Rasor for member of Board of Education.

SAW WIFE DROP DEAD.

Death came suddenly this morning to the wife of Superintendent E. A. Trincano, of the city's pumping plant on the Antill tract. While harnessing a driving horse to drive Trincano to his work, she suddenly threw her hands over her head and, sinking to the ground, passed away almost before Trincano was aware that she had fallen. He carried the remains to the house near by and summoned medical aid, but in vain.

Mrs. Trincano had shown no signs of illness, and was regarded as in very good health. The verdict of the Coroner's jury was that death was due to apoplexy. The deceased was a native of Cañon City, Or., where she was born about forty-nine years ago. A widower and four daughters survive her. No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.

REDLANDS.

WILL INTEREST TOURISTS.

REDLANDS, April 9.—The Traction company has put in commission a weekly "flyer," a big car that does a stunt of sixty miles every Thursday afternoon, leaving the Casa Loma at 1:25 p.m., going to Smiley Heights and Tenacina, thence to San Bernardino, Highland, Colton, Urbita Springs and back to the Casa Loma, arriving at 6 o'clock.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES CHOSEN.

The annual school election for trustees for the Redlands, Lugonia and Crafton districts resulted as follows: Lugonia, Dr. H. M. Haskell for the High School board; W. E. Putnam, Lugonia school district; Redlands district, E. S. Foote, three-year term; W. M. Campbell, two-year term; Crafton, J. E. Ward, three-year term as High School trustee; W. D. Bethel, Jr., trustee for the district.

BURGLAR'S RICH HAUL.

The store of the Sering Hardware Company was entered last night by burglars and $400 worth of goods, principally razors and other cutlery, were carried away. Entrance was made through the transom over the back door. This burglary is the largest that has been committed in Redlands for many months, but numerous smaller depredations have been perpetrated, and in each case except when a private house has been attacked, the attention of the thieves has been confined to hardware, tools, small arms, etc.

INDIO.

PAID FOR HIS FOLLY.

INDIO, April 9.—A man who gave his name as Frank Bowman, but refused to tell where he was from, was run over by a freight train here last night and his left foot so badly mangled that amputation was necessary. Although he had considerable money on his person he chose to travel via the brake-beam route and the accident was the result of an attempt to board a moving train. He was sent to the County Hospital for treatment.

RIVERSIDE.

PROBABLY WILL RECOVER.

RIVERSIDE, April 9.—D. C. Andrade, who attempted to suicide by inhaling gas for twelve hours and by taking big doses of morphine, probably will recover. He still sleeps, but his respiration and heart action are improved and the doctors believe that he will wear out the effects of the awful doses. Andrade took enough morphine to have killed a dozen men, and apparently inhaled illuminating gas for twelve hours. The would-be suicide told acquaintances whom he made here that he had been married four times, and he is believed to have a family somewhere in the East. The $100 that he entrusted to Coroner Dickson for funeral expenses is being used to care for him at the City Hospital.

ORANGE CITY BRIEFS.

Samuel Butler, a member of Co. D, Pomona, who died on Friday, was buried today with military honors. The services were conducted at Squire & Flagg's undertaking parlors, Rev. E. J. Inwood officiating. Companies D of Pomona and M of Riverside escorted the young soldier's remains to their last resting place.

Manager Miller of the Glenwood, Riverside; E. S. Graham of the Casa Loma, Redlands, and J. Morgan Ross of the Hotel Del Coronado will hold a conference soon to make plans for the next tourist season. The matter of eastern advertising will be considered and plans formulated for attracting tourists from Los Angeles and Pasadena.

George H. Dole tonight delivered the third of the series of addresses by laymen at the Universalist Church on "Agencies That Have Contributed to the Moral Progress of the World." Mr. Dole spoke on science as a factor in world progress.

CORONA.

NOTES OF THE NEWS.

CORONA, April 9.—W. L. Lyman has been elected school trustee for the long term, suceeding Miss Helen Platt, who was also a candidate.

The Corona Board of Trade at its last meeting arranged to communicate with the State Commissioner with the view of securing for Corona the pathological experiment station. The board has arranged with Prof. A. J. Cook to conduct a Farmers' Institute here September 28.

Plans are being made for an opera to be given by local talent under the auspices and for the benefit of the Board of Trade.

The Corona High School team will debate with the Perris team in that town on the 21st inst., Corona to have the negative of the question, "Resolved, that education in smaller colleges is more beneficial to the individual than in the larger colleges."

The City Trustees have appointed E. L. Hazard Street Superintendent.

SHALL THE CITY HAVE SALOONS?

THAT QUESTION SANTA ANA WILL DECIDE TODAY.

Vigorous Campaign on Temperance Ends With Mass Meetings, Sermons and Services of Prayer. Indications Point to Prohibition Victory by Safe Majority.

SANTA ANA, April 9.—The topic of greatest interest here is the impending struggle at tomorrow's election between the saloon and anti-saloon forces. No election of recent years has developed such intensity of feeling as has been manifested in the closing days of the present campaign, and the fierceness of the conflict will result in bringing out every vote available on each side.

The preponderance of public opinoin, as expressed by those in a position to know, is that the prohibition forces will win out by a comfortable majority on the saloon question, and that the ballots will register the emphatic disinclination of the electors to having the saloon reinstated.

The fight on Trustees will be much closer and both sides are claiming a victory. Citizens have been slow to express publicly their preferences for candidates, and accordingly those who have canvassed the vote are in doubt as to how the considerable "silent" vote will be cast. Undoubtedly the warmest struggle will be had in the Third Ward, where Col. S. H. Finley, the present chairman of the City Council, is a candidate for reelection on the Prohibition ticket, and George Edgar is standing for the high-license faction. The same two men were opposing candidates in the same ward four years ago, when Finley was elected by a narrow margin, and all the features brought out in that contest are being revived in the present one. Their chances are considered even.

In the First Ward there are three candidates, but the self-styled "anti-monopoly" candidate, Dr. J. G. Bernelke, running on a socialist platform, will not figure in the finals. The race lies between D. L. Anderson, the anti-saloon candidate, and John Cubbon, high-license advocate. The opposing candidates in the Fifth Ward are Oscar Gruenenwald, anti-saloon, and James Sieper, license. John Beatty, Jr., and J. A. Hankey will be elected as members of the Board of Education without opposition.

The campaign for the anti-saloon forces was closed today with two monster rallies at the Grand Operahouse, at which Rev. C. J. Hall was the speaker. Last night Hon. Will A. Harris of Los Angeles was the speaker, and forcefully stated the problems involved in the fight. Ministers of the city churches preached anti-saloon sermons for their congregations this morning. The regular evening church services were dismissed for the big temperance rally at the operahouse. Tomorrow at the First Congregational Church an all-day prayer meeting will be conducted under the direction of a committee of women from the various churches.

TO SAVE THEIR FARMS.

Farmers west of the river and in the territory immediately adjacent to the river banks who have been losers this year through the overflow of the river during the heavy storms, are agitating ways and means for preventing a repetition of the disaster. In some districts the financial loss was considerable, where vegetable crops were damaged, and wherever the overflow occurred there was serious inconvenience. One rancher of the Talbert district suggests the practicability of a bond issue by the county to make a secure levee. From another source comes the proposition of incorporating a district where the overflow occurs and levying upon this for building the necessary runway for the storm waters.

ANAHEIM.

NEARLY READY FOR BUSINESS.

ANAHEIM, April 9.—The Mother Colony is to have a third bank to be known as the Anaheim State Bank, with a capital stock of $50,000 or $100,000, and under a management not allied with either of the other banks. Chester Holcomb, formerly cashier of the First National Bank, is looking after the stock subscriptions for the new institution, and will doubtless be the cashier. He reports that the business men are anxious to see the new bank started up at once, and that all of the stock can be secured in this city. Los Angeles capitalists have offered to take stock in blocks of $20,000, but no subscriptions of over $5000 will be accepted.

NEW SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

At Friday's school election the following trustees were elected: Anaheim, Dr. Adams and Wm. Schwenkert, succeeding J. A. Clabaugh and Arthur Lewis; Lecars, W. S. Wesler, succeeding himself; Fullerton, T. G. McTaggart and Steve McCulloch, succeeding L. P. Drake and J. E. Ford.

Miss Harriet Smith, one of the teachers of the High School, is confined to her bed as the result of injuries received by being run into by a team while on her bicycle.

Alvin Pinder of this city and associates have purchased the National Vinegar and Pickle Works at Los Angeles. The new firm will pack fruits and vegetables.

NEW RAILROAD NOW ASSURED.

WORK ON VENTURA-OXNARD LINE BEGINS THIS MORNING.

Financial Obstacles Removed, Much Material on Hand and Workmen Ready to Start Construction—Supervisors Fail to Appoint Game Warden—Alleged Sharper Captured.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, April 9.—John Burson of electric road fame has announced definitely that work on his railroad will be begun tomorrow morning. He says his electric road is now an assured fact. The surveyors will take up their quarters in Oxnard tomorrow and a large working force will be in the field the following day and work will be begun and prosecuted to a conclusion. There will be no further trouble about finances. After three years of waiting the matter has been finally settled. Work will be started again where it was left off, between Hueneme on the coast and the town of Oxnard. Much of the material is already on hand and other material will be shipped into Hueneme as needed. The work of building will be prosecuted with all vigor toward Ventura, steam at first being used, to be followed by electricity when the road is complete. It is proposed to have the road between this city and Hueneme complete in time to move this season's beet crop. The owners of the sugar plant at Oxnard have made valuable franchises and granted rights of way to the enterprise. When the road reaches this city the base of supplies will be here. From this point Mr. Burson will not say just which way the road will be continued.

FAILED TO APPOINT.

The Board of Supervisors adjourned without appointing a game warden for the county. The fight for the place has been a hot one and the matter has been before the board for several months. The last vote taken by the board before adjournment resulted in two for Marple, one for Garrison and one for Luis Carne. Several other candidates for the place had filed petitions, but seemed to have wearied in waiting and to have dropped out of the running.

FOR WOMAN'S CLUB HOUSE.

The Ladies' Club House Association, after considerable thought, has purchased a site for the proposed county clubhouse for women. They have acquired the large lot on Chestnut street next adjoining the residence of P. Charlebois. The lot is a beautiful one and lies between Main and Santa Clara streets. Immediate steps will be taken to raise money for a suitable building.

IS HE A SHARPER?

A man giving the name of C. Hill has been arrested by the Sheriff at Filmore, where he had been taking orders for suits of clothes to be made up in Chicago. He was arrested on information from Paso Robles where it is supposed that under the name of C. White he carried on a similar business, his game being to take an order and secure half cash payment in advance. The clothing would never arrive. He was described as being 6 feet in height and minus a finger. When arrested the man had $65 and receipt stubs showing $45 collected about Fillmore. This amount was held for Fillmore claimants, but Hill-White was taken back to Paso Robles by an officer from that place who positively identified him.

The Odd Fellows of Santa Paula will lay the corner-stone of their new building at that place on the 26th inst. There will be elaborate ceremony and a ball and banquet. The date is also the eighty-sixth anniversary of the order.

BAKERSFIELD.

IMPROVED GAS HEADLIGHTS.

BAKERSFIELD, April 9.—C. W. Anderson, who is in charge of the headlight department of the Southern Pacific shops at Kern, has been successfully experimenting with a new generator for the acetylene headlights. With the generator now in use a great deal more of the chemical is used than will be consumed with the new one. The chemical used is very expensive, and great care is exercised in using it. Mr. Anderson has installed several of the lights on locomotives, with his new generator, and so far his invention has worked successfully.

ELKS WILL BUILD.

A meeting of the Elks' Hall Association will be held in this city on the 18th inst., at which time it is believed plans will be drawn up and the contract let for a three-story building. Not long since the directors levied the first assessment with a view to securing the necessary building fund. The Elks own a piece of land on Chester avenue near Twentieth street, and it is the intention to erect a modern theater building with lodge room and banquet hall. The construction work will cost between $30,000 and $35,000.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

The case of Jennie Castro, charged with murdering her husband, is now being heard before a jury in Department 2 of the Superior Court. This is the second trial of the case, the former resulting in a hung jury. She was a dance hall girl in Bakersfield. She is alleged to have shot her husband to death while he was endeavoring to take her away from sad surroundings.

In the case of the People vs. Phil Walker and three other young men, charged with the murder of an aged watch-maker at Vaughn last fall, the defendants asked for and will be given separate trials, the first that of Walker, being set for April 25.

NEW BAPTIST CHURCH.

A handsome new Baptist church, costing $16,000, was dedicated here today. Rev. A. M. Petty of Los Angeles, corresponding secretary of the Baptist convention, took part in the services and Rev. Albert Smith of Pasadena preached the sermon. The convention sent a gift of $1000 and other donations took the church out of debt.

Perils of the Dress Suit.

The dress suit necessitates dress shirts, studs more or less replendent, patent-leather shoes and a corresponding hat. The young man furnished forth in this jubilant raiment must make his investment active by using it. Taking his best girl to the theater he will find the plebeian street car and the gallery wholly beneath this garb. Carriages, orchestra seats, flowers and supper leave his $15 stipend close to the proverbial aspect of 30 cents. Thence debt, an effort to make good by striving with the ponies, and a final robbing of the till or cooking of accounts come in the reckless progress. Thus the innocent-looking dress suit appears as the first act in the drama whose finale is in jail, where the dress suit will be a completely dead investment.—[Pittsburgh Dispatch.

If You Come to Me I Will Remove the Cause of Your Trouble
For Men
My treatment is the most rational and most effective known. It removes the cause directly responsible for the trouble. This is accomplished by personal attention, and not by guessing through the mail. Patients coming to the city are furnished rooms free of charge.
FUNCTIONAL WEAKNESS
When I treat these cases I will see and know the exact condition and will know how to accomplish the desired results. My facilities are the best and especially adapted to the requirements. This condition is referable to many causes—excesses and diseases which tend to weaken the reproductive system, which in turn lowers the standard of vitality. I am getting the most satisfactory results every day.
VARICOCELE
I make definite claims for my cure of varicocele which invariably is from 4 to 6 days. I can introduce you to any number of cured patients, which I am convincing of the claims I make over all other treatment not so well founded.
STRICTURE
No operation is necessary to effect a cure. Many men complain of operations which should be avoided to prevent future trouble or conditions which require periodical treatment. I remove the exact cause responsible for the trouble and the cure is permanent.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS DAY.

LONG BEACH, April 9.—Four hundred Knights of Columbus from Los Angeles, Santa Monica, San Bernardino, Oxnard and Bakersfield arrived this morning on a special train over the Salt Lake and spent the day in instituting a local lodge of the order with a charter list of 104 members, comprising men from Long Beach, Wilmington, Compton and San Pedro.

Preceded by the Long Beach band the Knights marched up Pine avenue and out Fifth street to St. Anthony's Catholic Chuch where mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Francis X. McCabe of St. Vincent's College, Los Angeles, who also preached on the subject of the duty of Knights and catholicty.

Luncheon was served the visitors at noon and the afternoon was spent in getting the new lodge into working order. The first degree was exemplified by Worthy Grand Knight John C. Miles of Santa Monica, the second by Albert Frotteman of Los Angeles, and the third degree by State Deputy Joseph Scott and the State degree team. H. C. Dillon was elected Grand Worthy Knight of the new lodge. Tonight a banquet was tendered the visitors.

BARLEY PARASITE.

At the school election, D. W. Griffith was reelected to represent Inglewood on the High School board and W. L. Woodworth was reelected district trustee. Both are capable officers and are very popular among their constituents.

The piles have been driven for more than 400 feet and the structure is being firmly built. The piles are cross-braced and it is believed by the builders that no ordinary storm or high tide will do any injury to the pier.

Varicocele Cannot Be Cured Without Detention From Work

No man was ever cured of varicocele without stopping his work to be treated. We want our patients one week to guarantee a cure, but we solemnly promise not to use a knife or any wide-open surgical operation. We remove the diseased tissues completely by a painless operation known only to us. You can eat three times a day and sleep every night while under treatment. We can show you a hundred business men who will tell you from personal experience if the above is true. We will examine you free and show you the proof of our cures here in the city for ten years' successful work without one failure.

Riding Too Early.

Mrs. Julia Brown of No. 119 Hewitt street and a young woman friend who insisted upon being called "Miss Buttinski," started out for an early ride at 2 o'clock yesterday morning in a rig belonging to Louis Pallard, but too much imbibing and a lack of horse knowledge caused a runaway which seriously injured both women.

He stated that we are responsible for universal harmony, as well as for personal acts. If we fulfill our part in the universe we are preserving the harmony of the whole, and the result is individual happiness.

When Hall saw that he was cornered he gave himself up. Bail of $50 was required for his appearance in the Police Court today.

SUITS vs. BANK ACCOUNT
A suit is like a bank account—not nice to have it shrink.
All the fabrics used in Brauer-Krohn suits are shrunk by the very costly hand process. This process is slower than machine shrinking. Costs more money.
But hand-shrunk goods won't shrink any more in the hardest rainstorm.
Furthermore, all Brauer-Krohn goods are first machine shrunk by the woolen jobbers, then hand-shrunk in our own establishment.
A Brauer-Krohn suit shrinks from shrinking.

FIGHTING CHANCE TO GET ABOARD THE WARSHIPS.

The gale was stiff and the naval officers stiffer at Long Beach yesterday—Sundry and "divers" experiences of the sightseers.

WAILS of rage and woe rose from hundreds of people at Long Beach yesterday because they couldn't get on the warships.

There proved to be two, instead of five, the Chicago and Bennington, with a collier.

A high sea was running; wherever it may have been running, its gait was rough and boisterous. The billows bandied the steam launches that had been counting on making a bonanza of the day. A thousand people vainly tried to go on deck, turned back by the non-commissioned officers.

Billows may sink ships and young United Staters with red dabs on their arms may scare back the fleets of Spain; but a woman with a chicken-sandwich lunch and a return trip ticket is a more terrible object. Wherefore, although hundreds gave it up and screeched for their money back, hundreds of other persevered, and finally got aboard.

But they did so only after a series of strenuous adventures. Two fell overboard.

A man with a blue cap on the wharf grabbed your two-bit piece and rammed a piece of blue paper into your hand, and you started hopefully down a slippery sopped ladder into the bowels of the wharf.

HOW YOU DID IT.

At the bottom, you stood on the edge of a watery precipice and gazed down into the depths of space at a distant speck on the water; this was the launch you were to get in.

While you stood calling for a parachute, the sea suddenly gathered the thing up and threw it at you; it came with a bump and rush, slam-bang into the ladder, leaving you to clutch with both hands and chattering teeth.

The human baggage handler at the bottom glared at you with reproach and said, "Why didn't you step in?"

With simple, saddened dignity, you told him that you would forgive him for killing you; and the next time the sea slammed that old boat up through space you took a last look at the setting sun and leaped for life. Somehow you always seemed to land all right. Boat after boat went out yesterday without any accidents.

There were so many launches on the sea circling the white squadron that they looked like small boys following a circus calliope.

The sea was one of those seas of which you read about in poetry books where you totter unsteadily on the saw edge of a billow until something slips and you go sizzling down a greasy hill which suddenly heaves up below you.

Finally, with a large, healthy man standing on one of your feet, a woman clutching your choking collar, at the scruff of the neck for support, and two lovers kicking you in the ribs, on either side as they lay reclining on top of the cabin, the situation began to pall.

It looked pretty far from home, and you had queer emotions in the inner portions of your anatomy; you wonder if this is what novelists call "a sinking heart." If so, you wish for some one to throw a life preserver, before it sinks.

LAND-LUBBERS' CRITICISMS.

As this particular launch circled round the two warships waiting for a chance to board, the excursionists favored the navy with naive and candid criticism.

One of the sailors attempted to catch a rope thrown from a launch, and missed it. "Rotten," they yelled from the launch.

In any other country they'd have been jailed for lèse majesté or something. These stalwart tax payers considered the boat their property and they didn't altogether like it.

There was a sergeant of marines on board and he was held personally responsible.

"What do you have the name of the ship on the hind end for, and not on the front?" asked a man sitting in the bow of the launch, with severe disapproval.

"That's the way they always are?" said the sergeant, respectfully.

"Well, it's a hell of a way," commented the critic. "I know a man that owns a sailboat and he has the name on both ends."

HARD APORT!

One woman with gold teeth couldn't see much sense to the revered custom as to the companion ladders.

The port ladder is used by the public; the starboard is the sacred family entrance for the ship. The woman passenger observed that the launches were crowding and shoving about the port ladder, and only two apprentice boys with a naphtha launch at the starboard; she was for trying the starboard.

"It's against the rules; they don't never use the port ladder except for officers," said the sergeant in a scared voice.

"Rubbish," she snapped. "We won't hurt their old ladder. If they don't use it, it's high time they began."

But the captain of the launch had not her lion courage; he backed out, and never did get his passengers aboard.

A little nervous man in the stern suddenly sat up with a jump. His eye had caught the columns of thick black smoke pouring out of the funnels of both ships.

"Where are they going?" he gasped.

"Not going anywhere," said the sergeant.

"What are they burning all that coal for?"

"To keep steam up."

"Well, it's an awful waste of money," he sighed. All the rest of the voyage he kept an anxious eye on the funnels; whenever the smoke grew black and thick he cringed in agony of spirit.

The launches kept going round and round the ships much like chickens after corn meal; some of them were bold launches and butted right in, ramming everything, including war vessels, out of the way, and getting their passengers aboard; others were timid launches, always mincing up in a hesitating way and losing their places.

HAW-HAW-SIR!

The landings were funny.

One friendly-looking individual saw the sailors glancing with cold scorn at a futile rope tossed up to them from a launch, in an appealing way. The next time it came up, he reached out and grabbed it. He was a long, lean man in seedy clothes.

He grabbed the hawser in one hand and nodded confidentially at the boatman below that it was all right now.

Suddenly the sea gave a great pitch and the launch fell away down into a cañon of the waves. The hawser tightened with a jerk. The man, who had been nearly hidden behind the walls of steel, was jerked up sprawling out of the ship like a jack in the box.

But he held onto the rope! He hung on until you could see his lank form being stretched into the proportions of a telegraph wire. With one hand the gripped the warship and with the other he held the rope.

The crowd, expecting him to split, began to coach him from the fleet of launches scattered around.

"Hang on, Bill!" they yelled.

"He must be a cow puncher!" cried someone else.

"Rap it round your saddle pommel!"

"Don't tear the side out of the warship!"

Like a cat clawing frantically and dragged by the tail, that lank man was gradually pulled out over the side. He seemed to stick on by his toes.

There was a howl of triumph at last, when he fell foul of a giant ring on the side of the vessel and ran the hawser through. The knot that he tied was strange and weird, but he held the boat.

The fortunate ones who had managed to make the boarding, stuck their heads out past the big guns and over the sides and grinned delightedly at the bad luck of the others.

When it grew late in the afternoon, the joke began to wane. How were they to get off? It was not less of a trick to get off than to get on board. They were dismayed.

Whatever the name of these ladders over the side may be, they should be called something with a cuss word in it.

One woman, a girl with a plume in her hat, and a fetching tan gown, started down four times, each time running back with a squeal. Meanwhile the crowd was waiting at the head of the ladder for her—and not with uncomplaining patience.

A BAPTISM.

So she gathered up her courage, again and went slowly and doubtfully down with a young United States officer with red dabbed arms on either side.

The Bennington was wallowing in the sea with long huge rolls. The girl started to step off, but drew back coyly and the launch fell away down the side of a mountain of water.

Up, up, up the ladder went dizzily until the girl was far over the water; for a moment it trembled; then the swift, sick descent began. The platform on which the girl stood struck the water with a grand souse, she slipped gracefully off and the next spectacle was a beautiful plumed hat floating daintily on the billows with a pair of ruby lips blowing like a grampus.

They grabbed her out after the baptism and threw her into the launch. Her lovely tan skirt—'twas rushing the season, anyhow—clung about her like the fur of a drowned rat; her plumes sagged in dejection; her natty waist was plastered down to her skin; and her dress ran rivers of sticky salt water.

A RATE WAR.

The launches that failed to get their passengers aboard the ships returned the money.

It is estimated that between 6000 and 8000 people visited the beach during the day.

Fourteen launches were in service, and a rate war took place, four of the launches having combined with the Pacific Electric Company, and the others cutting their 50-cent rate in half.

THE PROGRAMME.

During the afternoon the band of the flagship Chicago came ashore and gave a concert in the city park.

This morning the Bennington and Chicago will go over to the breakwater to coal. On Tuesday and Wednesday visitors will be received. On Tuesday the officers will be taken on an automobile trip through the city and banqueted in the evening at the Hotel Julian. On Thursday the officers will entertain the Board of Trade and wives of the members.

Long Beach people are working to have the fleet stay over another Sunday instead of leaving Friday, as now planned.

TO SAVE HUMAN LIFE.

Dirigible Headlight the Invention of a Motorman Being Tested on the Huntington Lines.

O. E. Mitchell, a motorman on the Glendale-Tropico line of the Los Angeles Interurban Railway, has been granted a patent on a device which, it is believed, will greatly lessen the danger of accidents on grade crossings and on curves after dark. Associated with him is William Newell, and they propose to place the patent on the market as soon as they can install a plant for its manufacture.

The device is known as a dirigible headlight for electric cars, locomotives, automobiles and other high-speed vehicles. It consists of a simple combination of levers which extend from the floor of the car, just under the motorman's feet, to the headlight which is mounted on a swivel-like support at the front of the car. The pressure of the motorman's foot on the right-hand lever turns the light to the right and the other lever throws it in an opposite direction. The removal of pressure causes the light to return to its original position.

When a car equipped with a strong electric headlight of the kind now in use turns a curve, the beam is thrown at a tangent to the curve, and the path to be traveled by the car is left in darkness. With the new device it is easy for a motorman to turn his light so that he can see the track ahead as he rounds the curve. Approaching a grade crossing in the country, the motorman can shift his light from side to side, and see if wagons or pedestrians are approaching.

Car No. 202 of the Glendale line has been equipped with the device, and motormen have declared that the adoption of such a light would prevent many an accident. The chiefs of the mechanical departments of the various Huntington lines are thoroughly testing the new light, and it is probable that all the cars on the out-of-town lines will be equipped with it.

"The principle occurred to me one night when I narrowly escaped killing a man on a curve," said Mitchell last night. "I am confident that it will prevent the maiming and possibly the death of many a poor fellow. If it does that it will be worth all the time I have put on it, and more."

BOY STUNNED, BUGGY WRECKED.

DANGEROUS AUTOMOBILING IN LA CANYADA VALLEY.

Citizens Form Volunteer Vigilance Committee to Protect Life and Limb Against Devil-May-Care Chauffeurs—Next Autoist Gets a Sharp Warning.

"If necessary, we will carry arms to protect ourselves against the reckless chauffeur," was the sentiment expressed by a dozen citizens of La Cañada yesterday, as their indignation against the drivers of a death-dealing "devil wagon" rose to white heat while assisting in dressing the wounds of three boys from North Pasadena, who had narrowly escaped with their lives in an automobile accident a few minutes before.

The accident occurred in front of the residence of former Judge D. S. Carnahan on Michigan avenue about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Harold Tollen of North Pasadena was rendered unconscious for five minutes, his two companions were thrown violently to the ground and their buggy totally demolished by an automobile, whose driver continued to spin along the avenue, not even turning his head.

Judge Carnahan, in front of whose residence the accident occurred, was the first person to lend assistance to the victims. He declares that he could not see the number on the rear of the automobile distinctly.

Tollen was thrown from the buggy, and struck on his head on a dirt embankment 15 feet away. He was rendered unconscious for several minutes. His two companions were also thrown out, and sustained severe lacerations of the hands and the face.

Tollen declares that his horse became frightened at the automobile, which was being driven westward on Michigan avenue at a high rate of speed. He asserts that the occupants of the auotmobile paid no attention, but continued to run the machine with unslackened speed. As the machine approached close to the buggy the horse broke away, throwing the three boys violently to the ground. As they whizzed by the prostrate forms of the three boys and the wrecked buggy, it is said that the autoists acted as if nothing unusual had occurred.

Dalton Williams, who had witnessed the accident, arrived on the scene a few moments after Mr. Carnahan. Within five minutes a dozen men were assisting in dressing the wounds of the injured boys and removing the wrecked buggy. As the citizens continued their work, sentiment against the automobile scorcher grew rapidly. A number of the citizens declared their intention of taking the matter in their own hands, and said that they would form a Vigilance Committee and carry arms, if necessary, in order to protect the public against the reckless automobile driver.

The injured boys declared there were two men in the machine which caused the accident. The first was described as probably 50 years old, dark hair and smooth face and wearing a leather cap. The other was a young man, probably 25 years old, with smooth face, light hair, and a wearing a cap.

While the citizens were discussing the mishap by the roadside a second automobile, driven at a high rate of speed, came in sight. When it was within 100 yards of the group of citizens several of them stepped to the middle of the road and gave the signal to stop. The driver was cautioned against running at such a high rate of speed through La Cañada Valley and was then allowed to pass.

Thus the first Vigilance Committee against the murderous automobilist performed its first work.

THE MESSAGE OF DR. MEYER.

Famous Gospel Expounder's Opening Sermon.

Speaks Twice to Big Crowds in Temple Church.

Analytical Study of Great London Preacher.

Rev. Dr. F. B. Meyer, a plain-spoken clergyman from England, a simple man of the people with a message to the people, an orator whose tongue captivates because its verbiage has been divested of all the gewgaws of meaningless elocution, interested one of the largest religious audiences of the season yesterday afternoon at Temple Auditorium. Dr. Meyer comes to Los Angeles from Grace Chapel, London, and will speak at Temple Church every afternoon and evening this week, Saturday excepted.

He is a preacher of international renown. He is a soul-winner because he is sincere, natural, unaffected, forceful. He presents the plain word of God, and it is as a Bible student—according to Dr. Robert McIntyre—that he has won his greatest celebrity.

The meetings are to be conducted by the Ministerial Federation of Los Angeles, and certainly no more auspicious opening could have been given than the well-attended day session at yesterday's premiere. More than 3000 persons were congregated within the familiar old walls. The ground floor was entirely filled, a congregation sat upon the stage, another held all the seats of the first balcony, and in the gallery the outposts of the crowd were very near each other. Ministers from every denomination looked out upon the audience from the front rows of the rostrum, and while waiting for the final coming of the late arrivals, a chorus sang familiar gospel songs—in which the multitude joined from time to time, as memory and inclination prompted.

At length, as the hands of the little clock were nearing 4, Dr. Meyer stepped upon the front platform, surrounded by a number of the city's chief church spirits, among whom were Rev. Dr. Walker, Rev. Robert J. Burdette, Rev. William Horace Day and Francis Murphy.

The opening exercises were brief—for as Mr. Day announced, Meyer desires concentration, informality—brevity always. Dr. Walker made the opening prayer, Rev. Burdette called in a merrily-given collection, and after a few introductory words, Dr. Meyer stepped forward.

THE FIGURE.

Now, you are not to imagine a figure in a gown or other ultra-clerical raiment; neither are you to picture a man of impressive size, sculpturesque pose, or orotund voice—not any of these, but a kindly-faced, slender man of medium height, smooth shaven, with a countenance upon which much of the glow of youth still seems to linger. Meyer's face is a characteristic touch which gives distinct individuality to his whole person. Were it not for the whitening hair which halos it—yet which does not make it old—it might be taken for the face of an eager college youth; there is so great a mark of intense interest about it, an eager inquiry, a sign of constant learning, the seal of ceaseless renewal of fresh human impressions.

As for the manner of delivery: Meyer has gotten over pulpit oratory, if he ever had it in the commonly accepted sense of the word. His sermons are a conversation in which he does all the talking—nothing more. It is the same tone, the same manner, whether it is used in an aside to the people upon the platform with him, or in an appeal to the hundreds lining the farthest rows to the rear—difference in volume of voice, that is all.

There is one note characteristic of every sentence, every thought. It is earnestness; and because of the earnestness, his simplicity, attractiveness spiritual power.

He could not resort to a mountebank's tricks. He could not pose for a newspaper camera in an attitude of prayer. He could not issue flamboyant proclamations over his own signature, saying "Behold what great things God has done—and what greater, Meyer!"

Two sermons were delivered yesterday, but the afternoon discourse was the most important of these, for as the preacher said, all his talks are built upon a common foundation, and the later sermons are all connected with the original one. On Tuesday at 10:30 in the morning Dr. Meyer will meet ministers of all denominations at Central Presbyterian Church, and will hold a special men's meeting Tuesday evening after the regular services. Other than these, he will attend strictly to the afternoon and evening routine.

At the Churches Yesterday.

"New Wine"—Not Prohibition.

DR. J. J. WILKINS, dean of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, preached before a large congregation yesterday morning on "The New Wine." His text was from Ephesians v:15-21, and he differed from the agitators of the prohibition movement.

The speaker set forth the necessity for temperance and the need for the Christian to walk circumspectly in this age of hurry when the superficial rather than the substantial is so often in the ascendant. He then passed to a discussion of the use of wine, and spoke of the ancient home of the vine, where the Greeks sought the wine cup, not for animal indulgence but as a zest to good fellowship and to give a freer flow to social joys.

"It was this influence that ruled their feasts, that loosened their tongues and inspired their gayety," said the speaker, "hence, their wit was prone to ribaldry, and their songs the very antithesis of the 'spiritual songs' that gladden the feasts of the church.

"The quick imagination and the social instincts of the Ionian Greeks, the aptness for speech and song native to the land of Homer and Sappho, were gifts not to be repressed but sanctified. The lyre is to be tuned to other strains, and poetry must draw its inspiration from a higher source.

"The craving for excitement is writ large and deep in human kind. We all crave something to interrupt our quiet and ordinary state of mind; something to make us live more consciously and quickly; something that shall set pulses dying and thrill the jaded frame; something that shall lift the spirit above the hard task work of life and the dreary and hard conditions in which the lot of the multitude is cast. This is the craving that gives to drink its cruel fascination. Alcohol is a mighty magician. It changes, as by magic, the hard, prosaic aspects of life into sunshine, cheer and joy. It lifts the tired laborer, the household drudge, above dull care and fretting nerves and aching limbs, and gives, if only for one feverish moment, the joy of bounding life. It exists—this craving—in all sorts and conditions of men, in every age, beneath every sun. It is as universal as the air is universal. The young take wine to satisfy their love of excitement. The aged and debilitated take it to give tone to their system. Men of coarse nature take it because they are incapable of higher pleasures. Men of fine sensibilities take it because it is a source of inspiration to the intellect. Men of social tendencies take it because it helps them to good fellowship. Women take it because of a peculiarly sensitive frame and inequalities of feeling. And all these wants and needs it meets and, if only for the moment, satisfies.

"Now, can such a fundamental and universal craving be prevented from seeking its relief? Yes; we are told, by the removal of temptation and of the facility for gratification. But there must needs be something more than the removal of temptation from the public marts to eradicate a craving so deeply and indelibly written in the constitution of the race. Certainly St. Paul did not attempt thus to eradicate it. The removal of temptation will accomplish nothing unless higher tastes are formed and springs of purer pleasure are opened for the masses.

"All this St. Paul recognizes, and he finds a cure for drunkards in the church of God at Ephesus, not in legislation nor temperance societies, but in the joys of the Holy Ghost. An impracticable visionary, transcendental method, do you say? Then, my humorous friend, what is practicable? You have tried every other conceivable thing, only to find them all worse than impracticable. Why not be content with the Divine method for a time? Remember that the sense of being kindred with God is the mightiest feeling and inspiration in the spirit of man. By the wine of the spirit unrest is transmuted into peace. Toil and care are forgotten, sickness and trouble seems as nothing. Inspired by joys in the Holy Ghose we can glory in tribulation, laugh in the face of death, and throw away the dearest thing we own as if it were a trifle."

Temple Baptist Church.

Rev. I. E. Atteberry of the Baptist Institutional Church baptized five candidates at the morning service. The pastor of the Temple, Robert J. Burdette, introduced the morning sermon by reading from Proverbs xxiii: "Hear thou, my son, and be wise, and guide thy heart in the way. Be not among wine-bibbers, among gluttonous eaters of flesh, for the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty, and drowsiness will clothe a man with rags."

"Wine drinking did not commend itself to the wise man as a help to prosperity," said he. But there have been certain minds in Los Angeles that have been much disturbed of late, lest the triumph of the Anti-Saloon League, in closing the saloons of the city, should result in turning back the shadow on the dial of prosperity to a point some ten or fifteen years before Los Angeles was a city. They have an idea, which they express in very emphatic terms, that the prosperity of a city is indissolubly connected with the saloon. These civic philosophers proclaimed that Los Angeles would forever be a 'jay town' which, I presume, is something not to be mentioned in metropolitan circles, unless a certain hotel was permitted to open a bar. The license was secured, and Los Angeles was saved from a fate too terrible to be described, according to the philosophers aforesaid. But they were mistaken. I have the best authority for declaring that the population of Los Angeles had reached the number of 100,000 souls before the hotel, the barless condition of which threatened the city with degeneration, was built. I have the word of all the leading merchants on Spring and Broadway that they would have continued in business and from time to time advertised, expanded and extended their lines of trade had the license been refused.

"The prosperity of a city is not measured by the number of its saloons. Not at all. Take the matter of hotels—those beautiful and spacious hotels—the Raymond, Green, the Maryland, had their choice of going to San Bernardino, a "wide-open town," with whisky to burn—most of which should be burned—or to Pasadena—a prohibition town city since its founding. The absence of saloons has not hindered the prosperity of Pasadena. The presence of as many as you want of them has not added one dollar to the prosperity of San Bernardino. Did you ever hear a man say, 'Yes, I sent my son to Harvard, because Cambridge is a wide-open town, and he can run into a saloon and get a drink any time of the day or night.' Cambridge has been a prohibition city for twenty-five years. But the absence of saloons has not made it 'a jay town.' Oh, if it has, let us have more 'jay towns.'

"I wonder if the promotion committees of the Chamber of Commerce or the Board of Trade ever receive letters like this from men seeking homes in the West: 'I would like to know if you have plenty of good saloons in Los Angeles? You see I have a young family of boys and girls growing up, and I want to go to a live in a progressive city, up to date in all its appointments, and I am especially anxious that there should be plenty of saloons in the neighborhood where I may locate. And, by the way, how about the schools? I suppose you have some?' Is it a fact that the most desirable part of a city for business purposes is the section where the saloons are most numerous and closest together? Is there much of a movement among the merchants of Spring and Broadway to get more saloons on those streets in order to attract shoppers and stimulate business? Or, is Broadway a 'jay street?' Let's try it, anyhow. Maybe, what is good for a street is good for the town. One thing certain, if whisky is the magnet that draws settlers and investors, the city is bound to grow more rapidly after the saloons are closed, because these same philosophers assure us that there is five times more whisky sold and drunk under prohibition, than by the open saloon system. Well, then, if they are right in both their statements, the saloons have not done their duty by the city. Let's shut up the town and grow for a few years. Then, when we are bigger than San Francisco we can open all the saloons again, sober up, and stand still and give San Francisco a chance to catch up."

Word for Rockefeller.

Rev. Frank D. Talmage lifted a voice yesterday morning in his pulpit at the First Presbyterian Church in a determined protest against Washington Gladden and the other defamers of John D. Rockefeller. Dr. Talmage holds that money given in the right spirit is always a blessing, and cannot be otherwise to the church of God. In his talk the preacher said:

"Mud slinging during the past few weeks has been reduced to a fine art. Billingsgate, vituperation, slander and outrageous defamation have been clothing themselves in sheep's wool because a few ministers of the church of the Lord Jesus Christ have become participants in character attacks. Cowardly meannesses have been basking under the guise of heroics, because men have been stabbing a helpless victim with the stilettos of the pen, when he himself could do nothing but suffer and say nothing. An honest home has had many of its glass windows broken by ministerial marauders, who have been hurling their verbal missiles at that home. The denunciators of John D. Rockefeller in every respect are more to be condemned for their present action than is the noble man whom they are attacking. When any man states that John D. Rockefeller is a liar, a fraud, a cheat, a rascal, he is stating what is not true. It is about time that some respectable pulpit lifts its voice in protest.

"Why has John D. Rockefeller, during the past few weeks, been denounced with every crime in the criminal calendar? What is the cause of this wholesale public attack? Has he gone forth to knock anyone down? Has he defied the laws of the land? Has he during the past few weeks caused a 'Black Friday' in the money markets? Oh, no. He has been doing just as he has been accustomed to do for years. He has been giving money everywhere for philanthropic purposes. The direct cause of all this attack is due not to theft, but to a free gift. He offered to one of our Christian denominations $100,000, to be used by its officers for foreign missionary purposes. No sooner was this magnificent offer made public than a good many men who hate the Standard Oil monopoly, reached forth for their clubs and started in to beat John D. Rockefeller to death. 'At least,' they said, 'if we cannot destroy this millionaire, we will prove to the world how much purer and better we would be if we only had his millions.' They say his money is Judas's money. He is thief and a robber. Away with his gold. And not only that, but these so-called denunciators abrogate to themselves the idea that they are the supreme court of all moral and Christian integrity, and that as they denounce Rockefeller, so the true Christian world denounces him.

"My friends, I want to clearly and emphatically state not only are these denunciators sublimely egotistic and represent but a small minority of our church, but I assert that men like Washington Gladden are doing more damage to the Christian religion and to the Christian church than all the accumulated millions of a John D. Rockefeller will do in the next ten centuries. The proof to me that the church of the Lord Jesus Christ is divine is that noble men and women, like John D. Rockefeller, will serve it and give to it in spite of the fool and the contemptible actions of some church preachers, who do everything in their power to drive decent men away from the house of God.

"Not one scintilla of proof have these clerical defamers presented that John D. Rockefeller is a scoundrel. Their vile attacks are absolutely without any just cause. How have John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie done differently from other large reputable financiers? I buy a quart of peas from the grocery man for my family table. As a small buyer I have to pay the market price for those peas. But supposing I am the owner of a large hotel like the Waldorf-Astoria of New York City? Supposing I buy peas for my hotel guests, not by the pint or the quart, but by the bushel baskets. What then happens? Why, I get a reduction in the price. I then buy my peas less than the market price and no man can stop me. The great buyers, the great dealers, naturally reduce their proportional expenses. That is simply business. This is what John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie have been doing on a big scale. And yet, as a Pittsburgh pastor, I have heard Andrew Carnegie blackguarded from one end of the town to the other. In this country I have heard Rockefeller denounced as a liar, swindler, a thief, a scoundrel. And now the pulpit has started in with its malicious defamations.

"Change your laws if you will—but do not denounce men who are doing upon a big scale simply what all of us are doing upon a small scale. Furthermore, if Washington Gladden is right, then it is the business of ministers of the Lord Jesus Christ to constitute themselves a clerical detective agency, to hunt out the imperfections of others and refuse to receive any man into the service of the church, unless he has absolute clean hands and is able to walk in the realms of the profectionists. For my own part, I would infinitely prefer to be a man of the John, D. Rockefeller type, who is scattering his millions everywhere to do good, than I would to be a man of the type of Washington Gladden, whose pen is dipped in gall and whose personal life seems to be inspired with a heartless desire to defame and denounce some of his fellow-men.

"John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie may have made their money by a system of national laws which are not of the best. But these men are honest men. They have always been honest men. And they always will be honest men. Furthermore, these two financial leaders are among the few rich men who are teaching the world how to give and what to give for. They give. They keep on giving. In spite of their calumniators they give every-whither. They pour out their money in streams of gold. Colleges, churches, institutions of mercy everywhere are being blessed by their philanthropy. And yet, when they do give, their miserable, carping, cowardly, fault-finding defamers like Washington Gladden are denouncing them at every step. For my own part, I can see but little difference between the Pharisee and Judas. Of the two types of sinners I would prefer to be Judas. Judas knew that he was a betrayer. The Pharisee pretended he was a saint. John D. Rockefeller is not Judas. He is not a Pharisee. He, with Andrew Carnegie, are sending their moneys as blessings everywhere. Some of these men who denounce them are like Judas. Some are Pharisees. They are not fit to touch the hem of these noble philanthropists' garments, whose chief end of life seems to be to do good with their money wherever they may be. May God bless this protest which we have lifted today."

"Christianity Commercialized."

Rev. J. M. Spence, pastor of the Union Congregational Church of Green Bay, Wis., preached last night to the congregation of the Los Angeles Fellowship in Simpson Auditorium, at the invitation of the minister, Rev. B. Fay Mills. Mr. Spence's theme was "Christianity Commercialized," and he said in part:

"It is a hopeful sign that we are coming to recognize the incongruity of using ill-gotten gold as an instrument for the propagation of Christianity. And it is especially encouraging that in this Rockefeller instance the protest comes from the younger men in the church, indicative, we trust, of a generation of ministers committed to the application of Christian principles to business life. We hope that the Rockefeller incident, and the failure of the protest will open the way for a full, frank and fearless inquiry on their part into the whole 'system' which, as Dr. Gladden well says, Rockefeller represents. It is only by such an inquiry that the action of the board and the unhappy condition of the churches can be fully understood.

"Rockefeller is a type. He stands for 'the system.' He represents 'business interest.' He also represents the complicity of the church in the notoriously vicious practices of 'the system.' For Rockefeller is religious. He is an honored member of the church.

"The issue raised by Dr. Gladden, then, is more vital and far-reaching than at first appears. It is not merely the question of accepting the money of Rockefeller, but here as everywhere else in these days we face the moral bankruptcy of commercialism, with its deadly influence upon the church. And we shall look in vain for relief from the evils complained of until we are thoroughly aroused to the duty of taking a straight stand against the whole capitalistic system of exploitation which contradicts the fundamentals of morality and makes possible such a hideous travesty of Christianity as that which Rockefeller and his millions represent."

Twenty-eight New Members.

The Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church was crowded yesterday morning, and the services were exceedingly impressive. The Lord's Supper was celebrated, and twenty-eight new members were received into the communion of the church, many coming by confession of faith and baptism.

This church has just complete the most prosperous year of its history. At the recent annual business meeting it was reported that all expenses had been met, and a surplus left in the treasury. More than a hundred new members have been received, and all departments of the church are prospering greatly.

Preparatory to the Lord's Supper, Dr. Maclaren preached bri... on the "Two Crownings of Christ"—Matthew xxvii, 29: "They platted a crown of thorns and put it upon His head." And Revelation xix, 12: "And on His head were many diadems." He said, in part:

"Christ while on earth wore a crown of thorns. Men pressed that crown on His brow in ridicule and cruelty, to porve that they held Him in contempt and positively rejected Him. It was in the hour of His humiliation, sorrow and agony that He tasted death for every man, broke the power of Satan, and opened the way of salvation. Now He wears an eternal crown, shining like a thousand diadems. Whatever we forget about Christ He wants us to remember what He suffered for us, how much He loves us, and that no one can attain to glory who refuses to suffer for His sake. Stand for Christ with your whole heart. Be willing to live or die for Christian principle. Live righteously and join in every effort to save and exalt your fellow-men. Remember that the crown of thorns is a brittle and short-lived thing, while the diadem you shall win is eternal.

"I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us."

Heirs of God.

Rev. J. S. Thomson, pastor of the Independent Church of Christ, in Dobinson Auditorium preached yesterday on "The Heirs of God."

God made this planet for us, he declared. Millions of years were spent in the work of creation. Vegetation and animals, fishes, birds, were on this planet before the appearance of man. They were agents for preparing the earth for us. Worms made the soil for agriculture. The vast wealth of all kinds of minerals was hidden in the earth for man's discovery and use. God made the mountains, valleys, rivers, seas, for man. The forces of electricity and steam and wind are God's gifts to our race. These forces come into our service by means of various kinds of machinery. Our bodies are "fearfully and wonderfully made"—eyes, ears, hands, feet, and brain. "God made us, not we ourselves." When we study the works of nature and our bodies, the attributes of God are revealed to us—His power, wisdom, justice and love. These are some of our physical inheritances. But we also inherit God's promises. He promises that we should have seed time and harvest; and every year is a fulfillment of this grand promise. He promised man the dominion of this earth; and man is becoming more and more the lord of the planet. Man's growing conception of the universe is now reading in the laws, forces, methods, evolutions and plans of God, new promises of eternal progress, opportunity and glory. The house eternal in the heavens is promised to us. The gospel of Christ is full of inspiring promises. Christ preached eternal life, and that includes eternal progress. Christ came into our world to help us to realize the grandeur of our inheritance. We can realize the conviction that we are the children of God; but only through the spirit can we realize that we are heirs of God through Christ." It requires spiritual training and experience to make us comprehend the meaning of the words—"all things are yours."

Hospitality.

"True Hospitality" was the subject upon which J. E. Collom preached yesterday morning at the New Jerusalem Church. He took his text from Luke xiv, 12-14: "When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, worthy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbors; lest they also bid thee again, and a recompense be made thee But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind, and thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just." In part he said:

"When we compare our common social motives and customs with this sublime ideal of Jesus, how hollow they appear!

"The principle which Jesus here enunciates is that wealth of whatever kind must never be used in motive for the personal elevation and profit of the holder, but rather for the improvement and happiness of others, especially of the most helpless and needy.

"There are three kinds of wealth—material, intellectual and affectional. Each is a social product and creates a social function. Jesus, though destitute of material wealth, having His wants supplied by his friends and disciples, diffused abroad His intellectual wealth, illuminating the minds of men. He was peculiarly wealthy in love, in altruistic sympathy. This wealth is absolutely enduring. It accumulates by giving. God is its storehouse.

"The office of the church is twofold: first, to glorify and worship the graces and principles which constitute true affectional wealth, so that the pride of intellect and the harshness and coarseness of industrial and political life may be subdued and improved. The clergy, in the nature of the case, must take the lead here. But in the second office women must lead, for in the direction of social entertainments the feminine instinct and grace are indispensable. Here the aim is to bring together the elements of the community, to break down class hatred, family pride, intellectual conceit, political arrogance and all other forms of social disease, and to develop the spirit of brotherhood and mutual respect."

PRAYER STIRS A PARALYTIC.

ALLEGED CASE OF HEALING IN THE CITY JAIL.

Soldier Whose Legs Refused to Support His Body Casts Crutches Aside and Walks After Religious Service—William Spores Will Now Lead Christian Life, He Says.

This is the tale of William Spores, who claimed to be a paralytic and says he was healed by prayer.

"Arise, take up thy bed and walk," said a pretty Creole girl from the Rescue Mission to Spores, in the Receiving Hospital yesterday afternoon, after members of the religious sect had prayed for Spores's recovery.

Spores had been given up by the physicians as a hopeless cripple, but when the girl bade him arise, his shriveled limbs seemed to pulse with new life, vigor apparently crept through his tissues, and he arose unassisted from his cot.

He did not take up his bed, but said he felt able to do so, and as for walking, he proved his ability in that line, for he strolled out to the door and informed the attendants that he desired to quit the hospital, which had sheltered him.

Last Friday Spores was picked up on the street by a policeman. He had long been a paralytic, and he was hobbling on crutches, but he seemed to be suffering intensely, and he was sent to the hospital.

To the police surgeons(Spores stated that he had been stricken with paralysis while in the Philippines as one of Uncle Sam's soldiers. A year ago he received an honorable discharge from the army, but he did not recover the use of his lower limbs. The problem of earning a living was a hard one for the ex-soldier, but he managed in some way to eke out an existence.

When the Rescue workers held services in the City Jail yesterday afternoon, Spores heard the music and listened. Then when they entered the hospital and said a few words to the stricken man lying on the cot, Spores asked them to pray for his recovery.

Long and earnestly three women and a man besought the Almighty in fervent words to heal the afflicted. When the others had departed the little Creole girl remained and prayed further. Then she ordered Spores to get up. Mystified and puzzled beyond expression, the cripple essayed to arise and found to his great joy that he could do so. Crutches were cast aside. "I don't need them now," shouted Spores, "for I am a well man once more."

During his stay in the hospital Spores had eaten nothing, but when he got up and walked, he said he felt a ravenous appetite coming on. Supper in the jail was announced at this time, and the ex-soldier went in and ate more than any one else.

Shortly afterward Spores left the jail, vowing that he was not only completely cured, but that henceforth he would lead a Christian life.

Fatal Lesson in Manners.

To be beheaded in consequence of giving a lady a lesson in manners is an unusual fate, but it was that of St. Serenus, whose martyrdom was commemorated February 22. He was a Greek who betook himself to Sirmium, in what is now Hungary, and there made a garden, upon the produce of which he lived. One day, in 327 A.D., he met a lady walking in this garden with her two daughters, and promptly reproached them, not as a trespasser, but for walking abroad "at unseasonable hours." It was about noon, when a Roman lady of position ought to be taking a siesta. She complained to her husband, an officer in the Roman Emperor's guards, that Serenus had insulted her, but the official inquiry showed that he was right in vindicating the proprieties. The Governor, however, suspected that only a Christian would be so particular about them, taxed Serenus with being one, and duly beheaded him on confession.—[London Chronicle.

NOTED NEGRO SWAYSTHRONG.

Whites and Blacks Gather to Hear Dr. Walker.

Colored Churches United in a Tabernacle Meeting.

Talk on Prodigal Son Brings Penitents to Altar.

It was a cosmopolitan gathering which assembled in the great canvas tabernacle at Vine and Jackson streets last night to attend the first union evening meeting of "the black Spurgeon," Dr. Charles T. Walker of New York City.

It was the beginning of a series of union services for the colored churches of Los Angeles; but in that audience there were all shades of cuticle, from the hue of darkest ebony up through the graduations of color to many who beyond peradventure were "the whites," as they were referred to several times during the evening by the ministers on the improvised platform.

In this assemblage, too, were numerous Japanese, and several Mexicans—men carrying their wide-brimmed sombreros, and their women with heads wound round by the black rebosas. Probably this Spurgeon of the negro race never stood before a more thoroughly "mixed" congregation than that which listened to him last night.

Dr. Walker himself is a simon-pure negro. This is obvious through every lineament, movement and expression. His racial characteristics are all strongly emphasized, and nobody could attribute his acknowledged ability as a thinker, writer and preacher to any strain of white blood in his veins. He is a real American negro, and stands forth prominently in his special department of effort for the uplifting of his people, even as Booker T. Washington stands for their industrial and educational advancement.

"The Black Spurgeon."

Dr. Walker was born a slave. His father died the day before he was born, and when he was 8 years old he was left an orphan. He struggled valiantly for an education, and with the aid of earnest friends of his race succeeded in making his way through the training schools, and made constant advance until he became known as one of the brainiest and most brilliant negro preachers in America.

He has held important pastorates in the South and in New York, has traveled widely, both in Europe and America, has read extensively and thought profoundly. Easily he is one of the most notable negroes who have visited Los Angeles, and there is little doubt the two weeks' series of meetings which he is to conduct here will attract many people, regardless of color, although his effort is to reach the men and women of his own race and to help uplift them.

The tabernacle will seat 1500 people, and its capacity was taxed last night. Along one side a wide platform has been built for the large chorus of 100 voices, made up of the various church choirs, and for the ministers and personal workers.

The services were opened by a lively season of song, and then Rev. Dr. Pierce offered a prayer which was the means of bringing forth spirited responses from all parts of the congregation.

"Oh, Lord, we're all miserable sinners," said the preacher, "and we're all a long way from home, and haven't nary a penny to pay our way; so we just have to depend on you to put up the price for our way to Glory."

Dr. Walker's theme was "The Prodigal Son," and he read the touching parable from Luke xv with a pathos that melted many eyes to tears. The words of his text were: "I will arise and go to my Father."

"This parable is a poem, a history and a prophecy," said the speaker. "First it is a poem of the young man's innocence; then follows his sinfulness, and then his repentance and the song of salvation is the grand paean of praise with which it closes, the grand triumphal refrain being, 'This is my Son who was dead and lives again.'

"This young man's history I have analyzed into six periods, all of which, in order that they may be more easily remembered, I have summed up with words beginning with R. The steps of his career are request, reduction, reflection, resolution, return and reception.

"The young man stands as a type or representative of young manhood in every race throughout the world. Even as Adam stands as the head of the human race, so this prodigal stands as the type of manhood. Sin is the 'far country' into which man has journeyed from his innocence of infant years. And any man who is without hope of God and hope of heaven is far away from his Father's house, a stranger in a weary land. Being in this 'far country' is not only to be separated from God, but it is a spiritual waste in which the sinner loses much for the enrichment of his life. Man was made in the image of God—made to serve God and to love and live in His presence—and the sinner robs himself and fails to answer the end of his creation when he strays into the 'far country' and does not take advantage of the conditions for his return.

"The young man became destitute, even as sin causes you to become destitute spiritually. There are degrees in sin, but all of them go downward, and this young man went downward until he got on a level with the swine which he herded. Like him all mankind has wandered from God; but Jesus Christ has made it possible for man to come back to his Father's door again.

"Then came the resolution of the young man to return. No man is acting wisely who refuses to look after his own soul and who sins against his best friend. It isn't enough to vow and to resolve—you must act. This young man would have starved with the swine unless he had made the effort of arising and going unto his father's house. He started back, believing that his father would receive him. Do you doubt this for the men of today? The Bible is full of encouragement to the wicked to forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, to return to God and he will find mercy and peace. Standing forth in a blaze of glory are the words, "Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely.' Let us all claim this and cry out from the depths of our hearts, 'Lord, I'm a "whosoever!" '"

Dr. Walker followed with a graphic description of the powers of evil battling with the powers of God for the possession of the souls of men, and even for the supremacy at the time of the crucifixion. The speaker's imagery was beautiful and his flights of oratory striking. He swayed his vast congregation to sobs and tears, and then to shouts of joy as he portrayed the final triumph over sin and the supreme event of the resurrection of Christ.

Then followed a close personal application of the points of the sermon. "I know my people, and I know their superstitions and ignorance on this matter of salvation," declared Dr. Walker. "I know some folks go round and tell you that you cannot be saved unless you hear mysterious voices, and see wonderful visions, and have a great time of weeping and wailing and all this manner of thing—but the Bible doesn't say so."

There was a large response to the plea for penitents, and fifty persons went forward to the altar. The meetings will continue each night this week, and it is probable afternoon meetings will be held after today. All the colored churches of the city will join in the services during the week; and on one day during this period the white Baptists will unite with the colored brethren.

Gardens of Health.

Almost any roof can be made into a garden of health and happiness for children, where they can play with no risk to life and limb, with good air and sunlight all about them. At present the roofs of every American city are a vast neglected area which might be made immensely valuable and beneficial to the whole population, but more particularly to the children all the year round and to the older ones who stay in the city in the summer months. A few experimenters have shown in practice how easily and cheaply all this can be changed for the better.—[Philadelphia Press.

A piece of steel placed between two polar magnets will be attracted by one and repelled by the other. It takes considerable effort to force the steel toward the repellant magnet. It requires almost no effort to make it approach the attracting magnet.

Such is the position of the traveling man who is carrying both advertised and unadvertised goods. The advertised goods are attracted to the dealer's shelves with a power that almost takes them out of the drummer's hands. The unadvertised goods must overcome the negative repulsion of similar goods, already on the dealer's shelves, unsold because there has been no definite call for them by name. Advertised goods are the positive magnet attracting through the retailer's store. Unadvertised goods are the negative magnet repelling the drummer, making his audiences fewer and fewer, and making the net results scarcer and scarcer.

All advertising in THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL and THE SATURDAY EVENING POST is directed to creating an eager market, to create a demand which will work back through the drummer, jobber, wholesaler, to the manufacturer.

WEBLEY W. COE HOPES TO PUT SHOT FIFTY FEET.

Athletes' Reputations Short Lived. The "Canning" of Rose from Michigan a Case in Point—Coe and the California Giant Soon to Meet in Chicago.

Athletes' reputations are like the fair flowers—they fade quickly.

Big Ralph Rose is a case in point. A year ago the California giant was the whole thing. His Herculean feats of tossing the shot a few feet farther than anyone else could hurl it got him columns of free advertising, pictures in the sporting papers and no end of popularity; some of it desirable, and considerable part anything else.

Then the official "canning" of Rose from Michigan for alleged professionalism—a charge which, by the way, has only within the last few weeks been given a heinous one at Michigan—the Californian passes and just at present has no place in the athletic world is filled by a fat young New Englander, Webley W. Coe, who recently won the Amateur Light Guard Athletic Association meeting in Medford, Mass., with a nine-pound bag of shot and a throw of 45 feet. The only thing that stands in the way of his feat from being a world's record was the well-known rule of the A.A.U. to the effect that performances as regulation with Coe's style and it is confident that he will be able to put the fifty-foot mark event-ually. The sixteen-pound lead ball. Coe and Rose are to meet in Chicago at one of the big National Guard affairs, and the eyes of the athletic world will follow with interest the performances. Each professes to have no fear of any success to tackle the other, and neither has broken no records to date with the solid missile. Coe is a fine fellow together as well as yet.

COLLEGE BALL SEASON READY.

ST. VINCENT EXPECTS TO WIN FIRST HONORS.

U.S.C. Team Will be Weakened by Absence of at Least Four Stars Who Have Been Blotted Out by the Faculty—Pomona Will Get Few Games.

The interval between track athletics and the opening of the amateur baseball season is utilized to advantage by the college baseballers who will make up the nines from the local schools.

The recent stir at the University of Southern California caused by the action of the faculty in dropping from the eligible list certain of the prospective stars has caused consternation among the U.S.C. fans who before the play of the school authorities were hopeful that a winning bunch would represent the school this season. As a result of the faculty ruling it is said the team will be weakened to such an extent that the nine will cut only a small figure in the season's events.

Such men as Acker, De Lappe, Jack White and others, who were the strength of the team, are said to be so far behind with their credits that there is little hope of their making up.

Coach Holmes is sad, but he will set to work on Tuesday when school will open again after the vacation, to mold out of the raw material at least a creditable bunch.

There is little hope fo any college team outside of the St. Vincent winning championship honors on the amateur diamond this year and the dismal series of defeats suffered by Coach Haggerty's pupils seems likely to be wiped out with a glorious victory during this baseball season. Practically the same team which played for the "Saints" last year will represent the Catholic school this fall.

At Occidental college active practice will commence this week and the school will be represented by a fairly good set of men. The Presbyterians will look for honors from their games with U. S. C. and Pomona and there seems to be a possibility that old scores can be wiped out.

Pomona college has always devoted a generous amount of time to the game and many of her strong men are still in school. She has lost a good man in Cadwalader, however.

The schedule of games has not yet been arranged.

SINGER CHAMPION.

TURNERS' MEDAL SHOOT.

Joe Singer was in keen eye at Schuetzen Park yesterday and again walked off with the champion medal in the Turners' regular monthly contest, scoring the splendid string of 214.

Competition was hotter than usual, and President Hauerwaas ran a good second with 211 after starting badly with a fifteen for his first shot. The rest more than remedied it, however, as the big brewer averaged twenty-one for the ten tries.

William Frick was also among those present and his 216 was third for the day. The only other score over 200 was one point better than that figure and Auguste Marquis's old reliable gun drilled it out. Mr. Marquis has taken up the target rifle again after a successful season on the duck marsh and seems able to fino the black as regularly as any. In fact, he shot just a little too good yesterday and took the first medal; had he dropped down into the 190 division he might have added a third win on the second medal and made that trophy his property.

Louis Breer, who used to be one of the regulars, was on hand again and considering the long time he has been out of the sport, did well enough with 167.

The scores: Champion medal, Joe Singer, 214; first medal, A. Marquis, 201; second medal, A. Maas, 189; third medal, V. H. Tisdale, 174; fourth medal, Henry Pfirrmann, 172.

The day's scores: Singer, 214; Hauerwaas, 211; Frick, 210; Marquis, 201; Maas, 189; Frazier, 179; Tisdale, 174; Pfirrmann, 172; C. Gollmer, 170; L. Breer, 167; C. Krempel, 161; F. Huebsch, 140.

Minor Baseball.

The Hamburger team of this city defeated the San Pedros at San Pedro yesterday by a score of 3 to 2. The game was close and exciting from the start.

At Rivera yesterday the club of that town defeated the All-Merchants team of this city by a score of 2 to 1. The features were two double plays made by Stoll and McCaffery of the losers. The batteries were Freeman and Hague and Broadman and Leguln, the latter for Rivera.

The Tufts-Lyon team of this city went to Downey yesterday and was beaten by the club of that town, the score being 4 to 3. Downey made ten hits and Tufts-Lyon three hits. The battery for Downey was Lane and Ginzur and for the losers Hemus and Leahy.

The Hirigoyens were beaten yesterday by the Lions in this city, the score being 6 to 4. The winning battery was Ferrias and Benaert and the losing, E. Simons and Kutz. The Lions would like to hear from any city or country amateur team for a game next Sunday and can be reached by addressing F. Thomas, No. 117 Commercial street.

TARIFF WAR WITH GERMANY.

The Times prints today an important letter from a Berlin correspondent that emphasizes the warning recently given in the editorial columns of The Times that Germany is on the eve of a big tariff war with the United States. During the past month the Department of Commerce and Labor at Washington has issued, without comment, a summary of the provisions of the new German tariff law as finally moulded by the special reciprocity treaties concluded with seven European nations that are near neighbors to Germany. But up to date the gravity of the situation thus created has not been grasped generally by the press of this country. All who read our correspondent's letter, however, will realize that Germany has quietly gained for herself a commanding position in regard to the future trade relations of the two countries. In plain words, either the United States will have to modify its tariff in the direction of making concessions to German exports or Germany will effectually block the entry into her ports of our leading lines of produce.

With the denunciation of the "favored nation" treaty now in force, and requiring only three months' notice for its termination, which we have already pointed out as the inevitable first result of Germany's new tariff law, American wheat, flour, meat, dried fruits, and other agricultural products will be discriminated against in a way that will render our continued hold on the German market practically impossible unless some form of a reciprocal arrangement be entered into before the new duties go into force on the first of March next year. To take the commodities dealt with in detail by our correspondent, our wheat will have to pay 48 cents, our flour 94 cents, and our dried fruits $1.43 per hundred kilos more in import duty on entering Germany, than the same products from the neighboring European countries with which reciprocity treaties have already been concluded. As under present conditions there is already sharp competition in all these lines, such discrimination would simply mean the crushing of our trade. Last year the United States exported to Germany products amounting in value to $217,000,000. So we are now face to face with the choice of two alternatives—we must either submit to the destruction of this valuable trade, or consent to enter into a reciprocity treaty with Germany.

Up to date discussion on tariff reform in the United States has almost exclusively been from the point of view of our own internal requirements. The advocates of reform argue that the tariff wall is needlessly high for the protection of our home industries, and that consumers are therefore being overtaxed for the benefit, and to the wealth aggrandizement, of the manufacturers, and more especially of the big combinations of capital, such as the steel trust, that are most largely interested in our exports of manufactured goods. But Germany's resolute action in arming herself with an effective weapon to compel reciprocity entirely modifies the situation. We are being asked to break down our tariff on manufactured goods so as to permit of freer German competition in these articles in our home markets, and to force us to concessions in this direction "the big stick" is being held over our agricultural producers. Thus the approaching crisis is a gravely momentous one. As our Berlin correspondent puts it in the opening sentence of his letter: "No such compelling argument in favor of tariff legislation was presented during the recent session of Congress as will be found in the American foreign trade situation within a year." In view of our booming prosperity at home, the policy of "standing pat" on our present tariff, that is of letting well alone, has its strong and influential advocates. But for the first time the foreigner has asserted his power to have a say in what seemed to be purely a domestic controversy. An unbroken tariff means the loss of foreign trade—this is the plain and unmistakable meaning of Germany's challenge. So Congress will no longer be able just to let matters drift; during the next twelve months a definite decision must be made.

Does anybody stay at home in Los Angeles? The preachers draw greater crowds than all the ball games and races put together. After the regular services are over, there are great audiences left for the strangers within our gates. Then look at the gatherings at what might be called the "Sunday sideshows," filling almost every downtown hall—and the theaters full, too. Where are the old-fashioned stay-at-homes? Echo answers "where!"

Those bald-headed trees along the east side of Westlake Park don't look very attractive—but Time is a great healer.

VENERABLE KING CHRISTIAN.

King Christian IX of Denmark on Saturday celebrated the eighty-seventh anniversary of his birth, happy, hearty and hale. He has reigned forty-two years, and is perhaps the best-beloved monarch on earth not excepting even his royal neighbor, King Oscar of Sweden. As a ruler, Christian has striven for the moral and material improvement of his people, for their increase in personal and religious liberty, and for the removal of feudal encumbrances from their laws. In 1892 was celebrated with great splendor the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of King Christian with his consort, the Princess Louise of Hesse-Cassel. They are the parents of the Queen of England, the King of Greece, and of that powerful potentate, Dagmar, Dowager Empress of Russia, mother of unhappy Nicholas II. In 1869, six years after his accession to the throne, King Christian cemented the union of the Scandinavian people by the marriage of his eldest son to the daughter of Charles XV, then the King of Sweden.

OLD MEN FOR COUNSEL.

This is sometimes referred to as the "age of young men." A large eastern corporation recently announced that it would in future hire no men over 30 years of age. This is cutting down the time limit with a vengeance. More recently, an extraordinary statement, credited to Dr. William Osler, of Johns Hopkins University, has excited a howl of comment and protest all over the country. Perhaps that was what Dr. Osler wanted. It is known that able college professors do not always strongly object to publicity any more than actresses. The Times has referred editorially to Dr. Osler's ridiculous statement, that at the age of forty a man's usefulness begins to decline, while at the age of sixty he is only fit, from the utilitarian point of view, to be chloroformed. Here are just a few examples, to show how utterly unfounded Dr. Osler's statement is:

Charles R. Darwin, the celebrated English naturalist and philosopher, did not issue any of his great works until he was fifty years old. His greatest work, "The Descent of Man," appeared when he was 62 years, his "Variation of Plants and Animals Under Domestication" at 58, and his work on the "Expression of Emotions in Men and Animals" at 61.

Asa Gray, the eminent American botanist, produced the "School and Field Book of Botany" at 50, "National Science and Religion," at 70.

John S. C. Abbott published his "History of Napoleon III" at 53, his "Frederick the Great," at 66 and his "History of the French Revolution" at 84.

John Milton, the great English poet, wrote "Paradise Lost" at 58 and "Paradise Regained" at 64.

Dr. Joseph LeConte, the great American scientist, was elected to the chair of geology and natural history in the University of California at 46, and his great work on evolution appeared when he was 65.

It seems, by the way, that Osler is not the only man to advance this absurd theory—or something closely resembling it. For instance, read what Reuben Post Halleck, a Yale professor says in his treatise on psychology:

"The brain is less plastic after twenty and it gradually, so to speak, ossifies. Few men, after passing far into the thirties, get an entirely new idea into their heads, although the brain of the genius, as well as a brain judiciously exercised, probably remains plastic beyond the usual period. Even after the age of forty a fine structure of thought may be erected with materials already gathered, upon foundations already built, but any new fact will be apperceived in terms of former knowledge. . . . Some authorities think that the capacity for gaining new ideas ends earlier than the above."

Here is another quotation, from another college professor, William James of Harvard:

"Outside of their own business, the ideas gained by men before they are twenty-five are practically the only ideas they shall have in their lives; they cannot get anything new. Disinterested curiosity is past, the mental grooves and channels are set, the power of assimilation is gone."

Commenting upon these statements, the editor of "Thought" says:

"Statements like those quoted invariably proceed from men of collegiate experience and observation. The college man obtains his ideas from cramming, and then, surely enough, 'disinterested curiosity is past, the mental grooves and channels are set, the power of assimilation is gone.' But it is far otherwise with the man whose early years have an admixture of study and experience, who rubs up against the world all the way along, thirsting for knowledge and obtaining it, picking up new ideas concerning not alone his own business but also that which does not immediately interest him, associating (apperceiving) in a most happy and practical way from start to finish."

Herbert Spencer, the English philosopher, prolific in scientific writings, wrote nearly all of his works from 41 to 72 years of age.

Such instances might be multiplied indefinitely, but it is not necessary.

There is an ancient saying "old men for counsel, young men for war." And the saying is as true as it is old.

As noted on the "Workers' Page" in The Times yesterday, Col. Isaac D. Smead of Cleveland has invented, and capitalists have constructed and opened for use in that city, a moving roadway on the endless-belt plan, designed to carry horses and loads from the foot to the top of steep grades. The new humane roadway is in operation now, and promises to become a heavy dividend-payer. From 10 to 25 cents, according to weight of load, is the toll charged for its use, and its daily capacity is the transportation of 600 teams, up a maximum grade of 20 per cent., at a speed of four miles an hour. One or two such roadways in Los Angeles should pay handsomely, besides being a valuable contribution to the cause for which the Humane Society is laboring.

Prof. James Bryce, the noted English historian and sociologist, has determined that in the large American cities pauperism does not increase as rapidly as population. That the ratios are at all approximate would be menacing, were it not for our great territorial expanse and agricultural stability.

It is easier to believe that a greater amount of permanent good will result from the sincere appeals and arguments of Dr. Meyer, who began his campaign here yesterday, than from more spectacular efforts with streaks of yellow plainly visible in them.

What Americans Have Done.

"You Americans have accomplished another of those feats for which you have already become famous, and it is something this time that no other people have or could have done," remarked the touring Britisher, after a visit to the Zoo in Fairmount Park. "And this is what you have done. You have taught very nearly every animal known to the civilized world, herb-eating, carnivorous and otherwise, to eat peanuts. This may sound very simple at first, but it is quite a prodigious accomplishment when one thinks seriously of the matter.

"Now every one knows that the natural taste of the lions and members of the feline specie never tended to this American baseball-circus eatable, the peanut. No more did many of the birds, and equally as many of the animals in the Zoo ever taste peanuts before they were brought to this country. But the American knowing that peanuts were the proper thing to feed the wild creatures at the Zoo promptly proceeded to hand out the peanuts to the birds and beasts. At first there was a general refusal, but never daunted, you kept right on as though the feeding of peanuts to wild animals was a custom inaugurated by the native kings and princes of Africa and the other uncivilized countries.

"And the result? Well, you can see for yourself. Those poor dumb beasts were driven to eat a thing they did not relish and you kept so doggedly at it that one animal after another finally had to acknowledge the superiority of the American's epicurian tastes, and like every one else and everything else, fell a victim to the peanut habit."—[Philadelphia Press.

The Gasoline Street Car.

City officials ought to be reminded by the experiment with a gasoline railroad car at Chicago Heights last Sunday that experiments of this kind are being tried all over the country, and that the adaptation of the gasoline motor to railroad cars and street cars may be accomplished at any day, even if it has not been accomplished already. It is claimed that a gasoline street car can be operated at one-fourth of the expense of any other car whatever, and that it will reduce the fare of passengers from 5 to 3 or even 2 cents. The invention will completely revolutionize the street-car industry and immense profits will result to companies which already have franchises, and immense savings to cities which have franchises to grant.—[Chicago Chronicle.

IN THE BIG INDUSTRIES.

That a quickened tide of commerce is already flowing toward the Far East, despite the disturbances of war, and that the United States is having a full share of the new business, is made clear by the latest statistics compiled by the Department of Commerce and Labor. During the eight months of the current fiscal year ending with February, $92,500,000 worth of merchandise was shipped from this country to Asia and Oceania, which is practically equal to the total shown by the full twelve months of the preceding fiscal year. The share of China in this trade was $28,000,000, and of Japan, $27,000,000, both figures marking great increases. But, if we are to see clearly ahead, the broad facts must be carefully analyzed.

Manufacturing in the Far East.

Cotton clothes have contributed more than half the total value of these sales to China, while raw cotton constitutes by far the largest item in our exports to Japan. In other words, the one country is increasing its use of our manufactured goods, while the other is drawing more largely than ever on our raw materials. Therein lies a fact of grave importance as regards the future of our eastern trade. The opening of China more freely to the commerce of the world will at the beginning stimulate her imports of manufactures. But just how soon will China be following in the footsteps of Japan and herself be becoming a manufacturer? That is the momentous question.

Japan's Invasion of China.

Nor was it to be forgotten that China is an important cotton-growing country, and that the spinning of the fiber into yarn and the weaving of the yarn into cloth, have been native industries for over a thousand years. The transition from primitive appliances to steam-driven plants and modern machinery is already in process. At Shanghai alone there are four mills representing a capital investment of $2,500,000, and a significant fact is that one of these, originally Chinese-owned and at first not too prosperous, has now passed into Japanese ownership, and is under Japanese management and control. In other words, the keen commercial brain of Japan is already seizing hold of China as a field of industrial exploitation. So soon as the war is over and peace in the Far East is assured for a prolonged period, this movement will be immensely stimulated.

Wages of Chinese Workmen.

Now, compare the conditions of our own labor market with those ruling in China. Chinese labor in the cotton mills is reported as growing more efficient year by year; it is becoming more amenable to discipline and shows a greater disposition to keep steadily at work. The working day lasts thirteen and one-half hours, and night shifts of ten hours keep the machinery constantly in operation. Most of the mills in Shanghai pay by piece work, and the average amount earned is 12 cents a day, while elsewhere much lower rates of wages are paid. A recent trade commission from England arrived at the conclusion that, while Chinese cotton cloths were only beginning to compete directly with British goods, so favorable were the surrounding circumstances and conditions to the expansion of trade, that eventually the importers must suffer serious indirect loss. So, in the final result, the awakening of China and Japan will mean an awakening also (of a not too agreeable kind) for the cotton manufacturing nations of the world.

Industrial Census in England.

A Blue Book recently published by the British Board of Trade shows that the number of persons employed in agriculture in the United Kingdom has diminished since 1881 by more than 400,000. As these were principally men, it means, reckoning their dependents, a displacement from country to city of a population numbering about a million and a half.

Coming to industries, we find that in Great Britain between the years of 1881 and 1900, while the number of cotton workers has remained stationary, there has been a reduction of those engaged in the woolen, flax, linen and silk industries, the falling off in these four branches of textile manufactures totaling 90,000 workers. While improvements in machinery have increased the output of manufactured goods, from the sociological point of view this change implies that half a million persons, reckoning dependents, have been displaced from these industries.

In Germany, while the workers in wool have largely increased, there has been a similar displacement of population, as in Great Britain, in all the other textile industries, the net diminution in the number of workers being 69,000.

Great Gain in the United States.

In the United States, on the other hand, the figures are perfectly different. During the past twenty years workers in cotton have increased by 156,000, in wool by 28,000, in flax and linen by 2500 and in silk by 41,000—total gain of 227,500.

In all three countries the number of workers employed in mining has largely increased, also those employed in the iron and steel industries, including shipbuilding. In the broad result, while the industrial population of Great Britain has remained practically the same, that of Germany has increased considerably, while the United States shows an enormous advance. Such figures get to the very root of the question of industrial development among the nations.

New Brickmaking Process.

As illustrating how waste products may be turned to profitable use, the following account of a new brickmaking process started at the gas works of Plymouth, Eng., is of interest. Two by-products are utilized—clinkers from the furnaces and spent lime from the purifiers. First mixed with a proportion of clinker (about one-fourth of lime to one of clinker,) the lime is raised into a calcining tower and converted into carbonate and silicate of calcium. It is slaked with water, mixed with a further proportion of clinker (about two of clinker to one of calcium material,) and then passed through a tempering mill, the proper amount of water being added. By another elevator it is carried to a platform and delivered into a toggle press, which turns out the manufactured brick in a soft form. Placed on wagons, the bricks are run into an autoclave, a large tubular vessel capable of holding 7000 bricks. Here they are subjected to a pressure of about one hundred and ten pounds for upward of twelve hours, following which they are stacked and ready for sale. These bricks are of the finest quality, their absorption of water being very small, and their resisting strength 250 tons to the square foot.

The City of Blood.

Seven hundred years before Christ the Prince of Pohai had valuable possessions in Mukden. Before that Prince there were scores of other warriors and potentates who ruled the city or drew tribute from it. The origin of Mukden is wrapped in the veil of antiquity. All we know about its distant past is that immemorially it was a center of government or industry in the Far East, and that on account of the numerous battles which race after race fought for its mastery it has long been called the "city of blood." Oyama and Kouropatkin are only two of a countless number of contending generals who have formed great armies in battle array in and around the ancient and sacred walls of Mukden.—[Kansas City Journal.

THE NEW GERMAN TARIFF.

THREATENED COMMERCIAL WAR WITH THE UNITED STATES.

Germany Now in Position to Force Reciprocity, or Block Our Export Trade—"Favored Nation" Treaty is Likely to be Denounced—Differential Treatment of American Products.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, March 26.—No such compelling argument in favor of tariff legislation was presented during the recent session of Congress as will be found in the American foreign trade situation within a year. By a diplomatic-commercial coup, Germany has placed herself in a most commanding position in the pressure she will shortly be able to bring to bear upon all nations with whom her people exchange money and commodities. The fact that Germany has concluded seven treaties with important European countries whereby reciprocity of the most tangible kind is secured, has already been announced, and the terms of these treaties are quite generally understood by those whose affairs will be affected thereby. The fact, however, that Germany has also placed herself in a position to practically force other countries to her point of view is only just beginning to be realized.

In 1902, Germany adopted a new tariff law, containing radical revision of the schedule and increasing the import duty to a marked degree upon all principal imports which were at all competitive in character to her own industries. This law will go into effect in March, 1906, and in the meantime, reciprocity treaties have been concluded with Italy, Belgium, Roumania, Switzerland, Servia, Austria-Hungary and Russia. These treaties differ materially in their terms, but substantial reciprocity in international trade is secured in each of them. Two very important, if not the most important countries, so far as Germany's trade is concerned, are yet to be dealt with, the United States and England.

Under the present arrangement, both England and the United States are working under the "most favored nation" clause, which provides, in brief, that imports from these two countries shall be entered at the minimum rate of duty. As England is practically a free-trade country, she has nothing to give. At present, her markets are open to German products without restriction. Should this policy be maintained by England, she would probably continue to receive the benefit of the "most-favored nation" clause, but if Mr. Chamberlain's policy is adopted, she will be called upon by Germany to give something in return for a continuation of present concessions.

The United States is also working under the "most favored nation" clause, and under a special trade agreement affecting certain products made in 1900 under the authorization of the Dingley law. Opinion is now divided in Germany as to whether the United States shall, after March, 1906, continue to be thus benefited or whether such treaties as are now in existence shall be denounced, and a demand made for tariff concessions in return for placing American imports upon the same basis as the imports from the seven countries with which treaties have already been concluded.

The agrarian interests in Germany are in favor of a tariff war against the United States to force some consideration for German imports into that country. Many of the industrial, employing, and steamship interests are inclined to yield almost anything to insure commercial peace between the two countries and a successful continuation of the present large exchange of trade. Just at this time there is considerable speculation and great anxiety on the part of all concerned as to the outcome of the situation which will inevitably arise when the new German tariff law goes into effect in March, 1906. Emperor William is known to be in favor of almost anything which would lead to a unity of German-American interests, and has gone so far in this direction personally as to incur no little criticism among his own people, and some jealousy of American influence among the representatives of other foreign powers. A majority of sentiment among the leaders in the Reichstag today is, however, opposed to giving the United States something for nothing, and there is at the present time every indication that when the new German tariff law goes into effect next year, American trade will no longer be considered from the standpoint of the "most favored nation," and will, in consequence, incur the maximum tariff schedules. The effect of this will be most disastrous, and as soon as felt in the United States will excite the liveliest concern.

To prevent what promises with considerable certainty a most serious upset in international trade matters, some agreement must be reached between Germany and the United States before the new law goes into effect. One of two things must come to pass, either the United States must meet Germany at least part way in her efforts to bring about reciprocal trade advantages, and Germany is undoubtedly willing enough in this direction, or a tariff war is in prospect which will not only result in enormous loss to both German and American interests, but which will excite the liveliest feelings of resentment on both sides.

It will do no good for the American people to assert their independence of other countries or to show irritation, talk retaliation, or, in fact, to pursue any course other than to treat the matter from a purely business point of view. While Americans have been talking reciprocity, Germany has gone to work and put the principle into active operation in all her commercial relations abroad. To expect that she will make an exception of the United States is illogical, and what is more, the seven countries with whom Germany has already made reciprocity treaties would have just cause for complaint should Germany admit American products at the minimum rate of duty without demanding something in return in the same manner as she treated with them.

The United States enjoys the privilege of the "favored nation" clause with practically all the countries of Europe, but the interpretation of that clause in the capitals of Europe is different from its interpretation in Washington. In Europe it is applied to international relations in its broadest sense, while the government of the United States holds that compensation must be received for its extension. France already has a tariff law which provides the machinery for reciprocity, and every country in Europe, with the exception of Holland and Great Britain, has erected a tariff wall which can only be lowered to foreign products through special treaties through which mutual advantages are gained.

Some idea of the extent to which American trade will be affected by the new German law can be easily conveyed. In 1904, the United States bought from Germany $107,000,000 worth of products, and in that same year the United States sold to Germany products amounting to $217,000,000 in value. The new German tariff affects forty-six of the principal articles imported by Germany from the United States. The changes in the rate of duty are large, and the advantages derived through the treaties effected by the producers of the countries entering into these conventions are clearly shown. For instance, as matters now stand, the German import duty upon 100 kilos of wheat is $1.19. American wheat is now admitted into Germany by paying an import duty of 83 cents, owing to the "most favored nation" clause applying to American products. The new German tariff law raises the import duty on wheat to $1.75, which is reduced by treaty to the seven countries named to $1.30 per hundred kilos. At present the duty on flour is $2.50 per hundred kilos, but American flour now only pays $1.74 under the "favored nation" arrangement. The new law raises the import duty on flour to $4.36 per hundred kilos, which is reduced by treaty to $3.42, or a decrease of 94 cents. At present dried fruit pays 95 cents per hundred kilos import duty. The new law increases this duty to $2.38, and it is reduced by treaty to 95 cents, a difference of $1.43. In other words, unless the United States and Germany enter into a reciprocal arrangement before the 1st of March, 1906, American wheat will pay 48 cents, American flour 94 cents and American dried fruit $1.43 per hundred kilos more in import duty on entering Germany than the same products from the neighboring European countries, all of which enter into sharp competition with the products of America. The great and growing American export trade in dried fruit is especially concerned in this situation, for under the new law Germany will collect an import duty on prunes of $2.38 per hundred kilos, unless reciprocity is agreed upon, in which case the duty will be $1.19. There has been no duty on fresh apples, but the new law imposes a tax equal to that placed upon dried fruit. Last year, the United States sold Germany 15,000 tons of fresh apples in competition with Southern Europe. Under the new German law and in connection with the reciprocity treaties based thereon, the difference in favor of the European fruit would practically destroy the American trade.

The tariff situation in the United States is a matter of deep concern to many Americans, though, unfortunately for the country, few members of Congress are included among those actively interested. This same situation is occasioning considerable concern in Europe, as well as wonder. Hundreds of thousands of people and millions in trade are dependent upon exchange of commodities between Europe and America. It is not with the spirit of interference or idle curiosity that many European statesmen, hundreds of employers and thousands of workmen are most anxiously awaiting the final action of the United States in matters affecting the foreign trade of that country. Within the past two years the European people have obtained a most intelligent estimate of political and industrial conditions in the United States. They no longer expect trade treaties to be made by the State Department independently of Congress, and they are reading with interest the very full accounts printed in six or seven different languages in Europe of the tariff discussion in progress in the United States.

It is now fully understood that the matter rests with Congress as a legislative body, and not with any treaty-making power. It is less fully realized that a question of domestic as well as foreign policy is concerned with any tariff revision. It is not understood why legislation cannot be secured which will make it possible for the United States government to enter into trade negotiations with foreign governments without disturbing the tariff situation as it affects home industry. The German government is quite ready and willing to enter into a trade treaty with the United States in which American products will be given every possible advantage in the German markets in return for some tangible concessions to German trade in America. So long as the present spirit exists in German government circles, the United States could undoubtedly make a treaty in which the Germans would meet American advances more than half way. There would be no hard bargaining so far as the Germans are concerned, but a point has been reached when, in justice to German industry, and as a matter of political expediency, Germany can no longer continue to favor American trade without some recognition of advantages conferred in the shape of appreciable, if not equal concessions to German enterprises.

The countries of continental Europe now present a practically solid front against the further advancement of American foreign trade. This action is not really hostile, however. The principle of protection has gained ground rapidly in the past decade, for which the example of the United States is largely responsible. The principle of reciprocity, so freely discussed and widely advocated, but so sparingly adopted by the United States, has made equal progress in securing practical recognition among European peoples. The backwardness of the Americans in adopting a comprehensive reciprocity policy is not fully understood by European statesmen, and is a cause of considerable wonder and no small resentment. The wonder is based on the fact that the United States has more to gain in securing a foothold and opportunity for advancement of her foreign trade than any other country in the world. American competition is looked upon in Europe as the most dangerous form of commercial rivalry, and when concessions are offered to American exporters, these concessions possess far more significance than is implied in the actual granting of the same.

From a foreign point of view the conclusion is forced upon any observer, no matter how conservative he may be, that the tariff situation in the United States will reach a notable crisis within a year, that is, so far as it may have a bearing upon international trade relations. Germany has a deal to lose in precipitating any tariff war between herself and the United States, but she has now taken a position in tariff matters from which she cannot recede and one which will shortly compel the attention of the American people. Encouraged by the stand taken by Germany, other European countries will follow her lead, and no amount of bluff or bluster on the part of the United States will do away with an absolute necessity for the purchase of concessions to be paid for in kind.

Obstacles to Peace.

The Japanese have reason to fear that if Russia should make peace today it would be with a fixed resolve to return to the attack when she was in a condition to do so with pospect of success. Russia is a vast, and in many ways, an undeveloped empire whose growth as regards military resources is likely to be more rapid than that of the island empire. If the contest between Japan and Russia is to be an irrepressible one, like that between Rome and Carthage, it will be the natural impulse of Japan to make peace only on terms which will postpone for the longest possible time the day when Russia will again be ready for war with fair prospects of success.

That is why the impression prevails that Japan will insist on the payment of a large money indemnity and why Russia will not consent to it. It is taken for granted that the first thing Russia will do after there is peace will be to build battleships and create a fleet, with Admiral Rojestvensky's vessels as a nucleus, which will enable her, after seamen and officers shall have been trained, to endeavor to wrest the mastery of the Pacific from the Japanese. If the latter had a considerable Russian indemnity in their treasury they could build ships as fast as their adversaries. Then there would be business for the builders of warships in this and other countries.—[Chicago Tribune.

It was their love for Christ that put it there, for the Greek letters forming the word are the initial letters of 'Savior Jesus Christ, God's Son.' To put the name there, meant punishment, torture, death—yet the symbol is not wanting.

"You and I, drifting upon the seas of prosperity, may have left the faith of the early church and have drifted into the eddies, but I believe that Jesus Christ is not born as you and I were born, but that He was really born of the Virgin—such a thing is known in the lower orders; why should not God transpose the happening to a higher order for His purpose?

"I told my people that they were good to me, and that when I went away I would always buy a return ticket, but that they must let me come and tell the story of Jesus Christ everywhere in the world. This is my furlough, this is my vacation—to proclaim everywhere that Christ is the Son of God!"

A New Machine Gun.

The Danish army is testing a new automatic machine rifle, the Rexer, which in point of rapidity of fire, at least, is superior to any gun of the sort yet invented. The Colt automatic gun, in use in the United States navy, has a capacity of 600 shots per minute, but it jams quickly and is not reliable after a half minute's use to its full capacity. The Rexer shoots 900 times per minute, and it is claimed that 300 sighted shots can be fired in the same time. Another merit of the gun is that it is so light that it can be carried on the march on an infantryman's shoulder, its weight being but seventeen and a half pounds. Its probable defect, and this is apt to be a serious one, is that it is an air-cooled gun, like the Colt, and is consequently liable to get overheated and to jam. The great merit of the Maxim gun is that its barrel is water-cooled, and that it does not jam so readily. But the Maxim is almost valueless where water is not to be obtained, as the British army found in the Matabele campaign.—[New Orleans Times-Democrat.

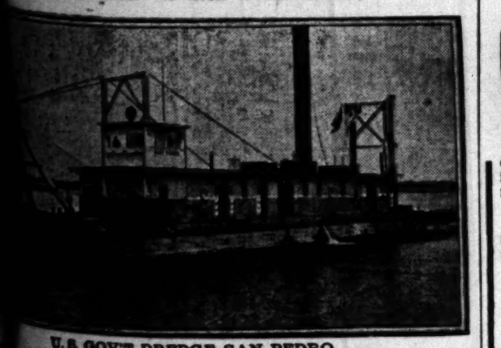
[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]



U. S. GOV'T DREDGE, SAN PEDRO.

San Pedro, April 8.—The big dredge which is being built at San Pedro has been accepted by the United States officially from the builders, and is at work building a channel for the Southwest. The dredge is in charge of Capt. C. H. Harris, U.S.A., and under the immediate supervision of Assistant Engineer A. Crawford.

The contract for the construction of the dredge was awarded to the Ellicott Dredge Company of Baltimore, Md., which built it at the contract price of $225,000. The boat was built at the company's shipyard here and launched, not after which time the completion of the dredge was begun. A force of expert machinists followed to assist in installing the machinery. Considerable delay in installing machinery was caused by the fact that most of it had to be shipped from the East, some of it coming around Cape Horn.

The dredge is a large one and very powerfully designed to withstand the severe strains to which it will be subjected. The machinery is of the latest and most improved pattern.

The material to be dredged is loosened by means of a movable cutter six feet in diameter and six feet long, working on the end of a frame which is raised and lowered by power. This cutter can work to any depth it is desired to dredge, and the loosened material is drawn into a twenty-inch suction pipe which is inside the cutter, by the vacuum of a centrifugal pump making 175 to 200 revolutions per minute, pours through the pump and is forced out by it through the long line of discharge pipe to any point desired. Velocity tests have been made which show that under average working conditions twenty-seven cubic feet are discharged per second of which 15 to 25 per cent. is solid material consisting of sand, mud and shells. This material is discharged in some cases 2000 feet from the dredge. The mouth of the discharge is shown in the illustration, with hundreds of sea gulls awaiting the appearance of a juicy clam.

Besides the operating machinery of the dredge, complete machine and blacksmith shops have been installed, where all necessary repairs may be made with the least possible loss of time.

The dredge has been operated since April 1 with two eight-hour shifts, with about ten men on each shift. The third shift will be installed April 15. The dredge is now operating near the wharves of the Southern California Lumber Company, but will move down below the end of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad wharf in a few days. All work is in accordance with the approved project of the improvement of the inner harbor. No expense has been spared by the government in building a dredge which will meet all the requirements for the improvement of the inner harbor

JANUARY JONES' Kawich Gold Reed Mining Shares at 15c.

$600 VALUES ARE ENCOUNTERED AND 15c STOCK ORDERED WITHDRAWN

On Tuesday, April 11, at 9 p.m., the subscription on Kawich Gold Reed Mining Company's shares at 15c will close, and then the 15c stock will be a thing of the past. January Jones has made good his promise to Los Angelans; has uncovered $600 ore, and now grants you a three days' limit to secure this bonanza stock at 15c.

TELEGRAM

LACLEDE BROKERAGE CO., J. Donnan Reavis, Mgr.

"The shaft has now reached a depth of 50 feet, and at this time a vein has been exposed showing $600 values. In addition, water has been developed in the Company's well at a depth of 16 feet. The price will remain as at present quoted, 15 cents, until Tuesday, April 11, and it is kept there simply as a protection to out-of-town customers, giving them their right to avail themselves of Kawich Gold Reed at this price."

Signed JANUARY JONES.

Conservative Judgment says: PROTECT YOUR OWN INTERESTS AND BUY NOW. These are Logical Recommendations for this Investment.

FIRST

Don't Forget January Jones promised Los Angelans, and he is making good his promises, that Kawich Gold Reed was the making of a great gold mine. He pledged you that he had exported the claims and found them rich in free gold. Now at fifty feet the shaft opens into ore carrying $600 a ton, and again Mr. Jones' wonderful judgment in mining is demonstrated.

SECOND

Remember The ores of the Kawich Gold Reed Mining Company are free gold ores, which guarantees they cannot only be reduced right at the mine, but that all the low grade ore can be profitably handled. The fact that we have found water guarantees that the mill can be operated at tremendous profit.

THIRD

Reflect January Jones is the managing director of the Kawich Gold Reed Mining Company and he is one of the luckiest miners and most expert mining engineers in the world. Consider how he made a million out of the January mine and that he is the business associate of Zeb Kendall, Patrick, Senator Nixon, Pittman and other great and successful Goldfield operators and you will decide that he is the best man for you to follow in making all of your Goldfield investments.

FINALLY

The five claims of the Kawich Gold Reed Mining Company cover 100 acres in the heart of the richest free gold district in the world. Who knows but what we have another "January" bonanza and that this 15c a share stock will go skyward in a trice? No matter how many shares you buy the profit is sure and the gain heavy.

OFFICES OPEN NIGHTS—Our offices will be open until 9 o'clock Monday and Tuesday nights for the convenience of those who cannot call during regular business hours.

Address all orders for Kawich Gold Reed Mining Company's stock at 15c a share, and make all checks, drafts and money orders payable to the Fiscal Agent.

PRAYER NOT ALL.

Murphy Urges Education as Well as Sobriety and Religion for Men Who Would Win.

In Francis Murphy's talk last night in Blanchard Hall, he urged upon parents the importance of educating their children, as well as having them sober and religious.

"Religion and education go hand in hand," he said. "You can't stand at the head of a bank or of a great mercantile establishment because you can say a prayer."

Brief addresses were made by Messrs. Whitmore, Wynne and Murdock. The music programme consisted of vocal solos by W. G. Taylor, Miss Rithengar and Annie Row, and a violin solo by Lloyd Stewart.

As usual, the house was packed, and many signed the pledge.

PERSONAL.

F. R. Forner and wife from the Nevada gold fields are also at the Westminster.

Capt. Lucien Young, commanding the U.S.S. Chicago, is registered at the Westminster.

John K. Ralston and Mrs. Ralston are at the Van Nuys Broadway from the City of Mexico.

Indians Kill Twins.

Indian twins are a great curiosity, for it is said that Indians never permit twins to live. Twins, in their belief, are heralds of impending evil, for a great many years ago the abduction of two beautiful twin daughters by members of a distant tribe was the cause of war and great loss of life. Hence, probably, originated the practice of killing Indian twins as soon as they are born.—[Indian School Journal].
